Judith Coplon Spy Case Goes To Jury In Washintgon, D.C.

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The Judith Coplon espionage case went to a federal court jury at 9:55 a. m. (EST) today.

The jury retired to decide the fate of the former justice department worker after listening to instructions by Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves on points of law.

The judge spoke for 25 minutes, repeatedly stressing that the defendant's intent was a major point for the jury's consideration.

Before the judge began speaking, defense attorney Archibald Palmer demanded that he declare a mistrial.

Palmer's move was based in part on the closing argument of Prosecutor John M. Kelley, Jr., who described Miss Coplon as a clever spy in Russia's behalf.

Palmer argued that Kelley's appeal was based on "passion and prejudice."

"I deny the motion," Judge Reeves said when Palmer finished.

Bitterness, which had become commonplace in the trial, marked the final pleas of attorneys yesterday. The eight men and four women on the jury were presented with these conflicting pictures of the tiny brunette: a clever spy in Russia's behalf—or an innocent person, "framed" by the justice department.

Closing for the government, John M. Kelley, Jr., an assistant attorney general, said Russia's espionage agents found in Miss Coplon "precisely what they wanted—a girl willing to sell out her country."

Chicago Man Lost Off Cabin Cruiser

Radio Dealer Believed Drowned; No Foul Play

Chicago, June 29 (AP)—The Coast Guard planned to resume search in Lake Michigan today for a Chicago business man who disappeared from a cabin cruiser last night and presumably drowned.

Police said there was some element of mystery surrounding the disappearance of Joseph Lutkus, 40, from the craft but there was no indication of foul play.

Lutkus, owner of the Northwest Radio Sales Corporation, was cruising with Dominic Siragusa, 35, owner of the 40-foot boat, and Miss Beth Adams, 23, a former Chicago beauty queen.

Police Capt. Thomas Harrison said Siragusa, head of the molded Products Corp., told him Lutkus vanished during a brief period while he was steering his boat through the outer breakwater gap off Oak street on the near north side about a mile off shore.

Harrison said Siragusa related that he and Miss Adams had last seen Lutkus in the stern listening to a radio program.

Big Salt Lake City Blaze Injures 20

Salt Lake City, June 29 (AP)—More than 20 firemen were reported injured or overcome by smoke during a 10-hour fire which destroyed the Utah Ice and Storage plant early today.

Flames still crackled in the five-story building more than ten hours after the fire was discovered.

The loss was estimated at between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

Short Of Dollars, Britian Faced By Trade Showdown

By HARVEY UDSON

Paris, June 29 (AP)—Britain faces a showdown today with other Marshall plan nations on how trade should be conducted among the nations of Europe.

The seven-member consultative committee of the organization for European economic cooperation (OEEC) will meet this morning and the full 19-nation organization later today in an effort to reach agreement.

The question is whether each nation will make its own trade agreements with the other nations, singly or will all the nations set up general principles, agree on their currency relationships and then take steps toward multilateral trade.

If the cabinet ministers decide that western Europe's economy has recovered sufficiently for the countries to give up dependence on barter agreements, they may vote for free trade among all the nations.

The United States, furnishing the Marshall plan dollars favors free trade. Belgium, the most prosperous of the Marshall plan countries, would like to see an advance toward that objective.

Britain, while favoring the theory of multilateral trade, is in the position of defending bilateralism. Cripps feels the time is not yet ripe for multilateral trade. He is fearful it might have an adverse effect on Britain's already precarious financial position.

France has proposed a compromise which would open the gate for some competitive free trade, yet keep the amount rigidly in control. The U. S. and Belgium are sympathetic to the French proposal. Britain has refused to budge.

The split in opinion takes on added significance when placed against the background of falling gold and dollar reserves in Britain and sharp drops in Britain's dollar earnings.

Craft said Funk denied any knowledge of 17-year-old Muriel Baldridge's death. Her bludgeoned body was found on the big Sandy river bank about 200 yards from her home early yesterday.

Townpeople speedily subscribed more than $1,500 as a reward for the slayer, Muriel, whose father is a Chesapeake & Ohio railroad section foreman, was the youngest of a family of seven children.

She had attended a carnival with three friends Monday night and left them to cross a bridge to her home. There were signs of a violent struggle where her body was found. A bush was uprooted. Coroner Shepherd said the girl was struck five blows on the head with a sharp instrument and her blue sunback dress was torn.

But Lewis apparently was unwilling to accept the operators' refusal as a final answer. His position is reported to be that some way to work out a limitation of the work week must be found.

Attorneys for the United Mine Workers argue that it can be done without violating the law.

Kin of Dewey Cut Off State Board

Lansing, June 29 (AP)—Governor Williams said today his personal representative would intervene in the long-standing strike of employees of the H. W. Gossard Company plant at Ishpeming.

Williams instructed his special adviser, Noel P. Fox of Muskegon, to request representatives of the company, the striking International Ladies Garment Workers Union and the city of Ishpeming to meet with him in Ishpeming either immediately before or immediately after July 4.

The governor was urged by the company president, he said, to intervene personally for "humanitarian reasons."

The governor appointed Dr. Roy G. Ruback, Jr., of Grand Rapids to succeed Dr. Hutt for a term ending April 30, 1954.

Truman Supporters Stunned By Senate Anti-Strike Action

Elections Of 1950 Only Hope, Says CIO

By MAX HALL

Washington, June 29 (AP)—CIO officials, stunned by the Senate's approval of anti-strike injunctions, today resigned themselves to keeping the Taft-Hartley act for two more years.

With Truman forces deep in gloom, the Senate tackled the rest of Senator Robert A. Taft's labor program after adopting his plan for setting "national emergency" strikes in a hectic session yesterday.

The Ohio Republican predicted a similar victory for the rest of his program, which is designed to keep the "essentials" of the Taft-Hartley act while making a number of changes in that law.

For the moment at least, his opponents, inside and outside Congress, weren't disputing the prediction.

Arthur Goldberg, general counsel of the CIO, said in an interview: "We might as well face the fact that we have the Taft-Hartley act until after the 1950 elections."

He said the Senate's crucial decision on emergency injunctions apparently forecast adoption of the rest of the Taft bill. And he said that if Taft's ideas are approved by the Senate and House, the bill "would have to be vetoed."

A veto, if upheld by Congress, would leave the present law intact.

An AFL spokesman said only that the Senate's action "is a setback but not a defeat in our long-run drive to get the Taft-Hartley act repealed." He was not optimistic over action this year, however.

Defense Tells Why Boy Killed Girl In Roanoke, Va., Church

By JOHN DAFFRON

Roanoke, Va., June 29 (AP)—In the face of a surprise defense admission that 16-year-old Dana Marie Weaver met death at the hands of Lee Scott the state began its prosecution of a first-degree murder charge against the high school athlete today.

Commonwealth's attorney C. E. Cuddy called to the stand the first of his witnesses before a jury in Hastings court. From these he sought support of his contention that the May 8 church-kitchen slaying was "wilful, deliberate and premeditated murder" with sex as the indicated motive.

Against this was the defense position that while Dana Marie met death in a struggle with Scott it was, at worst, manslaughter and not murder.

Came For Ping Pong And the reason for the struggle had nothing to do with sex, defense chief T. Warren Messick said in his opening statement yesterday. Rather, he said he would prove, it was "the pitiful and unfortunate" case of a young man.

'Flying Circus' Feature Of July 4 Program Here

One of the novel features of Escanaba's Fourth of July celebration at Ludington park Monday evening will be the appearance of a local "flying circus" being organized by Jon Thorin, flight instructor at the Escanaba municipal airport and Pioneer Aviation.

To top off the program, Thorin, a flying veteran of World War II, will fly the Army trainer, a two-seater open cockpit "job" that is used in G. I. commercial pilot training courses. It is a sturdy plane that Thorin periodically puts through its paces.

He will give an exhibition of stunt flying at a safe altitude in which he will demonstrate slow rolls, power dives, loop-the-loops and other tricky flying maneuvers. The Army trainer is technically known as the Stearman primary trainer, the PT-17, with a 220-horsepower motor.

The flying exhibitions will be

Visits Escanaba — Esther Van Wagener Tufty, well known Washington news correspondent, visited Escanaba yesterday while on a tour of the Upper Peninsula.

Baby Sitters For Tourists — Girls 15 years of age and older who desire to work as baby sitters as a community aid for tourists are asked to register with the city recreation department at George Grenholm's office there between 9:30 and 12 and 1:30 and 4:30 p. m. This service will be provided in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce. Telephone registrations will be accepted, but a personal interview is desired. Girls will receive pay at the prevailing rate, it was announced.

Rifle Club — The Escanaba Rifle and Pistol club will hold target practice at the outdoor range northwest of the ski park on Thursday evening. There will also be a short but important business meeting at 8:30. All members are urged to attend.

Committee Meeting — There will be a very important final meeting of all Fourth of July committee members and chairmen at the Chamber of Commerce office Thursday, June 30, at 7:30 p. m. All are requested to be present to make final arrangements for the celebration. Anyone unable to attend the meeting is asked to notify Don Guindon, Thursday.

Hit and Run — Police are searching for a 1941 black Buick which yesterday struck a car driven by Robert Thorne, Grand Rapids, on Lake Shore drive near the athletic field and failed to stop.

Minor Fires — City firemen have been called out twice this week, once to extinguish a blazing oil barrel in the garage at 318 North 14th street, and to control a fire on the Williams house at Wells, which caught afire from a blow torch which was being used to remove old paint.

Iron Mountain Bid On Steel Curb Form Accepted By Council

The bid of the Champion, Inc., of Iron Mountain to provide Blaw-Knox steel curb forms for use in the city street paving projects was accepted by the Escanaba city council in special meeting yesterday afternoon.

The low bidders agree to furnish 800 linear feet of front and back street forms and 160 linear feet of curb form with graces and stakes for $321.29. The motion to accept the bid was made by Councilman Tom Quinn, following recommendation of the city manager, and seconded by Councilman Peter Logan.

The Beaton Industrial Construction and Equipment company presented a bid through Tom Beaton to furnish the curb forms for $3265.92.

C. Elmer Olson and Claude Tobin appeared before the council yesterday in behalf of the American Legion post to ask for lights at the athletic field for the music festival during the U. P. Legion convention here July 16, 17 and 18.

The council authorized the city manager to have the lights installed, at a cost of approximately $260, and also granted approval for the city band to play for the convention on July 16. Tom Quinn moved to grant the lights and band, and was supported by Nevin Reynolds.

The council discussed a future appointment to the planning commission to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Carl G. Nelson. They also considered negotiations for re-purchase of a lot sold by the city, near St. Thomas church.

The city manager was authorized by the council to negotiate with the three Escanaba banks to re-finance loans at a lower interest rate and also was empowered to enter negotiations for the purchase of a 60 by 185 foot parcel of land between 19th and 20th streets and Ninth and 10th avenues south, to be used as a location for a new electric sub-station.

A. V. Aronson, city manager, said this morning that work on street paving projects here would begin at least by July 15. Petitions for over one mile of black-top paving have been submitted, in addition to two petitions for alley paving north and south of Ludington streets.

New Bids Asked On U. P. Highway Jobs

The state highway department is re-advertising for bids on two Upper Peninsula road jobs after rejecting the bids previously submitted by contractors. The new bids will be opened in Escanaba

Reckless Drivers Plead Guilty Here

Lloyd Pendleton of the Chemical Plant location and Edward LeMay of 2219 Ludington street have pleaded guilty in justice court to charges of reckless driving.

Pendleton, whose case has been continued for sentence until July 5, was arraigned this morning. He side-swiped a car owned by Arthur Klug of 406 South 14th street at 2:27 a. m., June 26 at the intersection of Stephenson avenue and Ludington street, while passing Klug on the right. Pendleton did not stop but was apprehended later by Klug and city police.

LeMay has been assessed a fine of $50 and costs, following arraignment Wednesday afternoon. He hit Marie Miller, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of 1406 North 20th street, near Pioneer Trail park Sunday afternoon, June 19. Her injuries have been reported not serious. Judge Henry Ranguette said this morning that the prosecuting attorney had recommended that the charge against LeMay, a bus driver, be reduced from drunk driving to reckless driving because of lack of evidence.

Tomorrow Deadline For Applying For Amputee Automobile

Midnight tomorrow is the deadline for application for free automobiles for leg amputees of World War II or veterans of the recent war who have lost the use of one or both legs. H. A. Mosher, manager of the U. P. office of the Veterans Administration, announced today.

Mosher said that 30 automobiles had been provided through the VA for men in the U. P. who have lost one or two legs.

Men who are eligible to apply for an automobile are reminded that they must do so tomorrow. The VA office is located on the third floor of the First National bank building in Escanaba.

The Pentagon has a gross floor area of more than six million feet—three times that of the Empire State Building.

Chippewa county—1,553 miles of grading, construction of drainage structures and aggregate surfacing on a county road from Highway US-2 west along the south city limits of Sault Ste. Marie.

Marquette county—2,926 miles of grading, construction of drainage structures, and gravel surfacing on county road 426 from Mashek southeast to Watson.

South Africans Like Walleye Fishing Here

Two sales managers of South African machinery importing firms, which distribute Harnischfeger products throughout their country, are sold on Delta county and its walleye fishing.

Jan Dreyer of Thomas Barlow & Sons, Ltd., Capetown, Union of South Africa, and Eric Stevenson of Barlows-Eastern Province, Ltd., of Port Elizabeth went fishing near H. J. Norton's cottage on the south shore this week and caught 14 nice walleyes. They were accompanied by Ray Herr of Milwaukee, export manager of the Harnischfeger corporation, and Baxter Mitchell, general manager of the Escanaba operations of the company.

"Walleye fishing is great sport and I wish we had some of it in South Africa," said Dreyer. "I do mostly sea fishing off the reefs back home."

Greatly Impressed

His companion, Stevenson, said he was greatly impressed with the Upper Peninsula region. The scenery here is beautiful, he said, and the people are among the most hospitable he has met anywhere.

Dreyer and Stevenson are in this country to study the manufacture and operation of products made by Harnischfeger and other corporations, whom they represent in the Union of South Africa. While here, they watched the loading of a P & H truck crane shipped Wednesday from the Escanaba plant to the Dorman-Long Construction company in Johannesburg, which will be used in industrial building work. Their companies are among the leading importers of machinery in Africa.

"South Africa is still in its infancy industrially, but there has been considerable expansion since the last war," Dreyer said. "Our country is rich in iron ore and manganese. The Iscor Steel company, particularly, has been expanding its operations."

Uses P. & H. Shovels
The Iscor Steel company, incidentally, uses Harnischfeger's P. & H. shovels in the Transvaal mining region near Pretoria.

Pretoria is the administrative capital of the Union of South Africa, while Capetown is the legislative seat. The visitors pointed out South Africa seems to "have two of many things." In addition to the two capitals, there are two flags, the Union Jack and South African; and two languages, English and the native Afrikaans. Port Elizabeth is a growing industrial center, Stevenson said. General Motors, Ford, Firestone, General Tire and other American corporations have plants there.

Sheep raising and fruit farming are important agricultural industries in South Africa, the visitors said. While there are a few woolen mills, the bulk of the wool is exported to Great Britain, Japan and France. Wines and lobster tails are also important export items. Most valuable exports, however, are still the gold and diamonds produced in the famous Transvaal region.

The visitors said there are only two and a half million people as compared with 10 million natives in the vast country, which geographically is four times the size of England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales combined.

Dreyer and Stevenson will return to South Africa in mid-July.

It's Good Fishing That Brings 'Em

OPENING of the bass season last Saturday provides another type of fishing for the sportsmen and vacationists who have been coming in increasing numbers to the Upper Peninsula in recent years.

Tourist courts, boat liversies and hotels in Delta county, particularly, report that this year they did the best May and June business in history. They attribute the excellent patronage of the past several weeks to the walleye fishing, which has been publicized by metropolitan newspapers throughout the Middle West.

Delta county's walleye fishing has boomed the tourist business in an unprecedented manner. From Gladstone to Rapid River and Stonington many new cottages have been erected. Boat livery facilities have been greatly expanded. Before the war, the cry was that this area was woefully lacking in tourist accommodations, but this complaint no longer can be made.

Visitors now tell us that Canada and other famous fishing regions have nothing that excels the walleye sport in the Bay de Noc waters. It must be true for hundreds of fishermen have been traveling hundreds of miles to fish in this section.

Beet And Cane Sugar Are The Same

RETAIL grocers say that an occasional customer still insists, when buying granulated sugar, that only the cane article will do.

The idea of any difference between the two was exploded long ago, but there are a few who maintain their prejudice against the pure beet sugar made in vast quantities in Michigan and other states.

They do not know, that uncoupled thousands of chemical tests, made over a period of years, disclose the now undoubted fact that granulated beet sugar is the equal in every way of granulated cane. The truth is that one is as pure as the other, it is just as clean and free from any harmful substance, and both have exactly the same sweetening qualities when used in cooking, baking, beverages, candy, or in any other of a thousand ways.

There is something wrong with the culinary skill or methods of the housewife or cook who just can't get good results with beet sugar. The latter is a top notch quality food that will always yield the same results as cane sugar if it is given a chance. Far be it from us to criticize unduly the one who cannot see this. She should give herself the once over. If she spoils the next batch of cookies made with beet sugar, the trouble is more than likely to be in her rather than in the sweetener.

South Needs Overhaul Of Economy

A GROUP of southerners recommends that private firms pour about $5,000,000,000 in capital into the South to quicken its sluggish economic bloodstream.

The group, a committee reporting for the National Planning Association, says the South must have an investment of that size if it is ever to catch up with the rest of the nation.

What would the money be used for? To bring more industry into the region and to step up the productivity and value of its agriculture. Higher per capita wealth and income is the prime need, says the committee.

Many years ago the late President Roosevelt dubbed the South "the nation's No. 1 economic problem." The sensitive South didn't like being singled out as a problem child.

But the issuance of this new report, written by two economists of Duke University in North Carolina on behalf of a representative group of southern leaders, is proof that southerners themselves are indeed aware of their region's shortcomings.

One could marshal a ponderous array of figures to document the South's backwardness, but it hardly seems necessary. The area unquestionably is the nation's poorest. Yet the region represents a paradox. For, as the committee says, it has tremendous undeveloped natural resources vast untapped markets in its growing cities and ample manpower supplies. The ingredients, in other words, of a healthy, balanced economy.

A review of the South's whole history would be required to explain how the region got into this strange fix. But one factor that stands out above all was its long reliance on cotton as the source of its wealth and income.

A changing, warring world swept away much of the once rich market for this crop and thereby kicked the chief prop from under the South.

Painfully the region has learned that it must diversify or die. And slowly it has begun to put its faith in a wider range of farm products and in struggling young industries.

The southerners' report is at once an expression of that faith and a cry for help. Impressive is the fact that the appeal is directed mainly to private business. Few are the pleas these days that are not carried straight to Washington.

Not that the southerners don't want some government aid. They do, for farm research, soil conservation to repair the ravages of a one-crop economy, and loans to farmers to help them become more efficient producers.

The committee believes that if the South can be helped to a higher income plane, it will then have the strength to generate its own future economic growth.

This looks like a gamble worth taking. This country operates nowadays on the notion that economic backwardness anywhere in the world is a drag on prosperity and a danger to peace. Committed to aiding many areas beyond our borders, we would appear extremely foolish were we to ignore the lag in the South.

Fireworks Are Sent Through Mails

THE Marinette Eagle-Star, which for some years has waged an editorial crusade against the fireworks traffic, puts its finger on the problem in a recent issue. Manufacturers and jobbers advertise fireworks in $5 and $10 lots in children's magazines, the Eagle-Star points out. Continuing, it states:

"There is one sure way of keeping dangerous fireworks from children and that is for all states to ban their sale or use. At the same time it should be made a felony for magazines to accept advertising of that nature. The one weakness of present anti-fireworks laws is their failure to provide a penalty for mailing explosives into the states. Whether such a provision would be constitutional is a question. The alternative is for all states to ban fireworks, or better still a federal ban which would close the loopholes which now permit manufacturers and jobbers to mail explosives."

AERIAL CIRCUS

When the sun is a flaming red disc above the western horizon and sunset glow lights the sky, when the cows are milked and feeding on night pasture, comes the time of the aerial circus. Chimney swifts spiral from the farmhouse chimney and stage a display of acrobatics. They climb steeply and dive toward earth; they swoop and circle and side-slip. There is a moment of sharp-angled zig-zagging followed by a long graceful glide. A dozen birds may be in the air in a flock, but there is never a collision although each is putting on his separate ballet. Sometimes they stage their circus in silence; sometimes they seem excited and the evening air is shredded by their shrill, staccato, metallic twitters.

The chimney swift is one of our most interesting birds although there are those who wish they had not left their ancient nesting places in hollow trees for man-made chimneys. Chaetura pelagica is about four inches long; his wing spread is approximately 12. His cloak is a sooty, dull black above and a lighter shade below. He has a short, stubby bill and a large mouth to help catch insects on the wing. The short tail has strong, spiked tips that serve as a fan-shaped brace when he clings to a chimney wall. The nest is a rough affair of short twigs, glued together and to saliva. Four or five white eggs are laid; frequently the young birds fall into the fireplace below.

So far as the countryman can observe the chimney swift never rests on a tree limb, shed roof or ground. Of the 75 known species only four are found in North America. The chimney swifts do most of their food hunting in early morning and in the evening; but sometimes just before a mid-afternoon thunderstorm they put on some of their most spectacular flying. While rumbles reverberate and billowing black clouds are background for jagged forks of lightning, the birds seem to go berserk with wild ecstasy. The swifts may be a bit of a nuisance in the chimneys but as a man is dropping off to sleep he rather enjoys the twitters and monotone talking a few feet from his head. A July evening would not seem complete without the dusky birds putting on an aerial circus.

BY Haydn Pearson.

EXPORTING KNOW-HOW

Wall Street Journal

Our London correspondent reports that British bars are using jiggers with false bottoms.

Who said American methods were not conquering the world?

Monte Carlo, planning to add the American game of craps to its gambling repertoire, sent its director to Reno to learn the game. He should have brought a barrel to go home in.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

THE BRITISH LONG "O" IS UNLIKE THE AMERICAN

In the speech of many Britons, of London, Oxford, Cambridge, and thereabouts especially, the long "o" vowel has a sound that never occurs in Standard American speech. It is difficult if not impossible to describe in print the exact sound of the British long "o" in such words as go, old, home, zone, and so on. But I'll try to give you a reasonably exact facsimile, as the radio announcers say.

The word go, for example, seems to start out as "ge" (short "e" as in "get"), and winds up as a faint "oo" as in "book," thus: "geoo." But the two sounds blend with each other into a sound that makes the word go sound something like but not exactly like "geh."

When the Briton says "I'm going home," the American ear seems to hear "I'm geng hem." The word soda resembles "seduh," and so on.

So far I have found no explanation of this peculiar contortion of the long "o."

Many Tourists At Hyde Park

By MARQUIS CHILDS

Hyde Park, New York.—The license plates on the cars in the big, paved parking area are from states in every corner of the country—Maine, New Jersey, Georgia, New Mexico. The walk leads past the massive hemlock hedge and there, in an opening in the hedge, is the block of marble that marks the grave of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The groups of tourists pause. They talk in low voices. They look at the block of marble with its inscription—the name and the years of birth and death. Just beyond is the rose garden, now in its last, fading bloom.

Then they go on to the big house in its setting of ancient trees and green lawns. If it is a weekend holiday, the line waiting for admission stretches way back onto the driveway.

—NATIONAL SHRINE—

This is an extraordinary phenomenon of our time. Four years ago this was a private house. Today it is a national shrine, and as the tourist season warms up in July and August new thousands will make it one of their goals.

On Memorial Day, 9979 people visited the Roosevelt estate. Only about 2700 of this total could be admitted to the house, and many of them stood in line for hours for that privilege. It takes not less than 15 minutes for the visitor to get a glimpse of the rooms on the first and second floors.

In 1947 the National Park Service, custodian of the house and the 50 acres which the late president gave to the nation, counted 516,000 visitors. That dropped in 1948. But it is climbing again, and 1949 may be nearly as big a year as '47. The total on Memorial Day was the second largest on record.

The park service has been remarkably successful in preserving the atmosphere of a house still lived in. On the table in the dining room is a bowl of blue and gold enamel that was a favorite with Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, the president's mother. It contains an arrangement of pink roses and baby's breath.

In the big library are the books accumulated through several generations. Over the fireplace at one end of the room is the Gilbert Stuart portrait of Isaac Roosevelt, who was active in the Revolutionary War and the constitutional convention. And through the long windows you can glimpse the distant Hudson. This was the view the president loved so well.

—MANY VISIT BEDROOM—

The visitors stop longest in the doorway of what was the president's bedroom. There on the couch at the end of the bed is his dressing gown. In the half-open door of a big, old-fashioned wardrobe, you can see a Panama hat, a pair of evening pumps, several suits on hangers. On Fala's chair is his leash and harness.

The professional Roosevelt-haters will grind their teeth and mutter that the money they pay for taxes is maintaining this idolatry. But that is not so. Each visitor pays 25 cents for admission to the house, and in 1947 that more than met the cost of upkeep and supervision. While it failed to do so by a small amount last year, the park service expects to break even on Hyde Park in 1949.

Visitors also pay 25 cents for admission to the Roosevelt library and museum, which is administered by the National Archives. In the museum are all the strange and wonderful and ridiculous things given to the president and his wife during their 12 years in the White House, along with mementoes of the president's childhood.

To the library the president left the vast accumulation of his personal papers, which are being put in order so that eventually they will all be available to research students and historians. New and valued material is constantly coming in. Thus, Henry Morgenthau jr., recently turned over to the library the 840-volume "diary" of his years as secretary of the treasury.

The experts in charge of this growing mountain of material estimate that already more has been written about Franklin Roosevelt, and in every language of the world, than about any figure in history except Napoleon. That is a joke on the Roosevelt-haters who, incidentally, contributed more than their share to the Niagara of words that flows on.

More conscious of the stream of history than almost any other president, Roosevelt was also conscious of his place in the stream. You might say he planned it this way and that, too, is something of a joke on his enemies.

Phoneticists recognize its existence, but they do not explain it. My theory is that it is the result of influence of the co-called Oxford accent, a degraded and horrid speech pattern which originated among Oxford students in ridicule of the rural dialect spoken by natives of Oxford county.

A young friend of mine, a former RAF flyer, who now lives not far from me, had the typical British long "o" in his speech to a pronounced degree. "When I first came to America," he said, "I had the devil's own time trying to buy my favorite brand of cigarettes—Old Golds." (He still calls them "ell gelz.") "Whenever I'd ask for ell gelz, I'd get Prince Albert, or a packet of chewing gum, or some Lifesavers, or something of the sort—but never ell gelz. I became quite frustrated about it."

"What did you finally do?" I asked.

"I solved the problem very neatly," he said. "I switched to Chesterfields."

In our own southwestern and western states the diphthong "ow" (as in "cow") is frequently heard with the sound of flat "a" (as in "cat") before it. The word cow starts out as "ka" as in "cat" and finishes with "oo" as in "cook." This dialectal pronunciation is usually written "caow." The Westerner will say, "I'm going to town to buy me a braown caow." But there is no connection between this and the British distortion of long "o."

Ambidextrous

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

FIRST AND LAST—It was nearly three hundred years ago that the waters of the Great Lakes were disturbed by the launching of the first large cargo-carrying vessel. That vessel was the Griffin, whose construction on the shore of Lake Erie above Niagara Falls had been closely watched by La Salle and Tonty, French explorers. There were many difficulties. The French workmen were not too enthusiastic about the venture and the Indians viewed the work with suspicion. Once they nearly destroyed the Griffin by fire before it was launched.

Far different was the recent launching at Lorain, Ohio, of the carrier Wilfred Sykes for the Inland Steel company. The Sykes is 678 feet long—largest fresh water vessel in the world—and could swallow up the entire cargo of 300 vessels like the Griffin, with room to spare. The Sykes will have a cargo capacity of 20,000 gross tons, compared with the 60 tons capacity of the Griffin.

IN THAT HARBOR—Sailing to Washington Island with friends of ours over the weekend we docked in Detroit harbor near the place where—nearly three centuries ago—the Griffin anchored to take aboard a cargo of furs.

Today the largest vessels to enter the harbor are considered small craft compared to the giant ore carriers of the Lakes. Even the smaller pleasure boats and package freighters must make their way in and out of the harbor through a man-made channel. The Griffin sailed in and out of those uncharted waters with plenty of water under her keel, for she was not of deep draft. When she cleared from that harbor she was nevermore seen, again by her owners and is believed to have foundered in a storm on Lake Michigan.

THE TRADERS—The French were a people who traded and colonized in the Great Lakes area of North America, founding the cities of St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie and Detroit in that order. Had it not been for the loss of the Griffin it is possible that other French communities and trading centers would have been established farther westward on Green bay—perhaps at Washington Island. But the opposition of the Iroquois Indians in the East and the war with the British held back westward expansion of the French and Washington Island's present claim is only that it was here the first vessel trading was done on the Great Lakes.

Detroit harbor is located at the southern end of Washington Island, a harbor protected by Washington Island on the north and west, Detroit Island on the south and east. It was with the Indians on Washington Island that La Salle traded beads and watered whiskey for rich peltries taken by the Indians from the lands surrounding Green bay.

ONLY THE FEW—From the center of northern Green bay in fair weather can be seen the rimming land: Islands to the east and southeast, and to the north and west the mainland. It is from here that you discern the few boats that now move across the bay, most of them the boats of commercial fishermen who know bay waters as well, perhaps better, than you know your town. And there are the boats of the men who find recreation in sailing. Then last of all the huge ore carriers, like the Sykes, that move like automotons along fixed courses. Yet always there is the wide expanse of water, unpeopled and remote.

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba—Cadet Ivam Sattlem, class of 1940, U. S. Military academy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Knute Sattlem of Escanaba, has been appointed to the grade of first sergeant.

Escanaba—Atty. H. J. Rushton was appointed manager of the Upper Peninsula State Fair board at a meeting held yesterday. Robert C. Pryal continues as secretary of the board.

Gladstone—Jimmy Peterson, Yens Wheaton jr., John Hillwaert and Paul Cargo have returned from East Lansing where they attended Boys State. John Norton accompanied them.

Twenty Years Ago

Escanaba—Mrs. Margaret Lemmer, Mrs. D. J. Murphy and Mrs. A. Meloche have returned from Hancock where they attended a meeting of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters.

Manistique—Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fleming have left for Chicago where they will make their home. Manistique—Paul Baldwin and William Shinar have returned from Charlevoix where they attended the convention of the Michigan Bankers association.

Gladstone—Rev. Paul E. Nelson and S. J. Nelson have returned from Princeton, Ill., where they attended the conference of the Swedish Evangelical Mission churches.

Old Indian relics may still be found there. And it was those Indians, together with Tonty and LaSalle, who on that September day nearly 300 years ago watched the Griffin sail away with her cargo of furs—never to be heard from again.

FRONT YARD—Washington Island is approximately 25 miles distant from Escanaba, as the boats sail. Only 25 miles—as the same distance as by highway to Powers and Spalding. Yet how few Delta county residents consider the water as a travel route, although it has always been there for that purpose. It was there before the highways, the railroads, the airplanes—a broad expanse that needed only a sail or a motor to convert it into a waterway for carrying freight and passengers.

First settlements began where there were protected harbors, for then nearly all travel was by boat. The first railroad engine to arrive in Escanaba came by boat. Everything the then little community required was transported on water. When winter came and bays were ice-locked, men then turned to the slow and arduous overland routes.

The water of Green bay is the front yard of most of our communities. Yet the majority of our people little know or appreciate it.

Housing

Dear Editor:

The public housing bill now before Congress necessitates that lawmakers decide, one way or another, a problem which many U. S. citizens have not fully answered themselves.

That problem is: Can citizen workers cooperate in a fair and competitive way to provide for their own livelihood, or must they relegate to their government control of the basics of living.

No citizen wants to haggle in political circles for a house. Neither does he want to sleep outdoors or in an unsightly shack. If real estate men and those operating in the building fields can provide decent houses at a moderate cost, most Americans would prefer that private business build their homes. But they will accept government control rather than be exploited.

We must not be mistaken: in one thing however. In the United States, you work for what you get. Housing must be provided, but not for shiftless persons or the favor seekers. There are those, whether we care to admit it or not, who would not have a decent home ten years from now, even if he were given a $20,000 house today.

Housing is not the only field where this problem of government control, labeled socialism, new dealism, centralized government and what have you, arises. Folks who aren't getting adequate medical and hospital care because of high cost or lack of finances for facilities are fighting for government insurance and other forms of control.

The crux of the matter seems to lie in the ability of citizens to work and live together without trying to gouge one another. If the lack of necessities is caused in any phase by exploitation, monopoly, and other unfair practices, then citizens will revert to government control because they are forced to. The consequences they will analyze later, even though many would-be authorities and histories fully depict them now.

Foreign Products

Dear Editor:

In a recent report by United Nations, all Marshall aid countries soon intend to increase their exports more than what they were in the year 1938. It would be instructive to learn to what countries the Marshall aid countries intend to "export their products." Will American farmers be willing that the agricultural products of such countries enter and be sold on the open market? Will the American laboring men be willing to remain idle while manufactured goods are brought into this country? To complicate matters still more, there are the surpluses of all products grown and manufactured in Bizonia, Germany, which must be placed on the market somewhere.

Puzzled Reader.

Bandshell Needed

Dear Editor:

Why is Escanaba so slow in putting up a bandshell in Ludington park? Other towns of the same size have had good bandshells for years. It's too bad that we didn't build one here back in the WPA days. Escanaba has a good municipal band, but a band is almost useless unless it has a good place for its concerts. Let's get the bandshell project going as soon as possible.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington.—President Truman discussed plans for fortifying the nation's economy against depression in a recent off-the-record talk with six Democratic senators and Congressmen.

Only a meager announcement leaked out to the press, but here are the highlights of what happened. A program of economic expansion" was proposed that may affect the future of every American.

President Truman greeted the congressional group by saying: "I think I am way ahead of you on this."

Then he pulled several charts out of his top, right-hand drawer showing the latest national statistics on prices, wages, profits and production up to the end of May.

He admitted that the first symptoms of depression are beginning to show and agreed that the best plan is to attack any "mild break" in the economy to stop it from spreading. He stressed, however, that he is not worried about depression—as long as each problem is met before it grows into a crisis.

—FACTORY LOANS—

The legislators who called on the president were Senators James Murray of Montana, Elbert Thomas of Utah, John Sparkman of Alabama, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Congressman Andy Bierpiller of Wisconsin and Congressman Helen Gahagan Douglas of California—all Democrats.

At the top of the five-point "economic expansion" program they urged on Truman was promotion of private investment and production by offering FHA-type loans to build plants. Private enterprise, they agreed, is the key to a healthy economy. The legislators also recommended:

1. A national advisory board, combining the business, labor, agriculture and consumer committees that now exist separately;
2. Measures to deal directly with serious unemployment wherever and whenever it develops;
3. Long-range planning for public works and resource development;
4. Voluntary adjustments in purchasing power.

Truman said he couldn't endorse the program without studying the details, but remarked: "You are my kind of folks."

Their kind of thinking, he added, had always coincided with his own. It had been his belief and policy to ease off inflation controls gradually and give the economy a chance to adjust itself. But the G. O. P.-controlled 80th Congress scrapped all controls at once, let prices and profits soar unchecked; then, as a last straw, passed a "rich man's" tax bill.

"That was no time for a rich-man's tax bill—when profits were at their highest," Truman shook his head.

The inevitable result was "economic dislocation," the president declared. From such dizzy heights, it would only be natural for prices, profits, wages and production to come crashing down. Therefore, he said, the government must throw roadblocks in the way to prevent stampeding the economy into depression. If the public doesn't get panicky, Truman added, there is no danger of depression.

—DIXIECRAT POSTMASTERS—

South Carolina's wily senator Olin Johnston reversed the tables on President Truman the other day and applied some sly counter-pressure to get postmasters appointed in his state.

It is no secret that the president has been holding up appointments to punish southern senators and congressmen who have opposed his program. But what the White House didn't take into account is that Johnston happens to be chairman of the senate postoffice committee which must pass on all postmaster appointments.

So the South Carolinian sided up to Senator Howard McGrath, Democratic National chairman, and later to senate Secretary Les Biffle, the president's close friend. Drawing sweetly, Johnston let it be known that he was disturbed over not getting postmasters for South Carolina, and hinted that maybe he would just block all appointments until those for his own state came through.

Johnston allowed time for his remarks to pass on to the White House, then called for an appointment. When he was ushered into the president's office, he talked about other matters. Then he mentioned casually: "I notice a lot of postmasters have been appointed lately, but my state hasn't gotten any. This is creating a little talk."

Wouldn't the president, please, he asked, look into the matter?

Scratching a note on his pad, Truman replied: "Yes, we'll attend to that right away."

—ACHESON REPORTS—

One important point that didn't leak out of Secretary Acheson's hush-hush report to the senate foreign relations committee was regarding his smooth relations between the Western Powers.

Acheson reported that the British and French were more reasonable over the question of German economic and political rehabilitation than ever before. Earlier the French had been adamant against building up Germany, but at Paris, both Britain and France seemed more worried about Germany as a commercial competitor than as a military force, Acheson reported.

They were willing to go much farther in rebuilding German production, provided that tight control over military development was guaranteed.

Some men marry to have someone to tell their troubles to, and soon have plenty to talk about.

Another Chinatown broke out in a tong war—but they always seem able to iron out their difficulties.

During a flood in Beatrice, Neb., a goat was left stranded on a front porch. Maybe they're not allowed to carry billies there.

New Harmony, Indiana, Was Early New Deal

By ROBERT C. RUARK

New Harmony, Ind.—The golden raindrops drip their blooms upon the ground and, fittingly, peaceful doves strut along the streets. But the old opera house is a garage, and an oil-drilling machinery store dominates the town.

This is the town in which the angel Gabriel reputedly lit upon a rock: this is the sleepy hamlet which is all that remains of the perfect experiment in idealized, scientifically administered Communism. I can think of no better object lesson for the times than a brief recast of the history of New Harmony, Ind. It is one that might well be noted in the wishful Utopia of Washington, D. C.

New Harmony was the perfect town; the town that had everything going for it: the town that couldn't miss, and did, with a resounding bang, crash and clatter.

New Harmony was settled by a Germanic religious sect, the Rappites. It was bought, lock stock and granary, in 1825, by Robert Owen, a rich Welshman who had experimented with a benevolent brand of socialism in his cotton mills at New Lanark, Scotland. Owen was intrigued with New Harmony, in which the Rappites had even gone so far as to destroy the records of individual bank balances.

Paid $150,000 For It

He paid $150,000, hard money, for 30,000 acres, and determined to erect himself a small heaven on earth, every man a king, all free, all equal, all sharing in the communal wealth. Owen had a theory that if you took a man away from the pressures of commercial competition and surrounded him with books, science, philosophy and flowers, you could eradicate selfishness, crime and evil from the earth.

In 1826, what they called "a boatload of knowledge" arrived. It was akin to the early surge of Franklin Roosevelt's Brain Trusters on Washington. These were the fixers, the plotters, the schemers, the economists, the alchemists of the soul. They represented the cream of advanced thinking at the time.

William Maclure, scientist, Thomas Say, a conchologist, Charles Lesueur, a naturalist, David Dale Owen, a geologist—printers, editors, planners, artists, prognosticators, they all came to New Harmony. It is interesting to know that Mr. Maclure, a rich, scientific farmer along the lines of Henry Wallace, had failed at an expensive agricultural experiment in Spain, and was trying his luck again on fresh terrain.

Free Medical Care
This, then, was a planned and plotted Utopia. The United States first kindergarten, its first free school, its first coeducational school, its first industrial school, its first prohibition of liquor by administration, one of the first big meteorological stations and scientific farming centers—all were born within the year 1826 in New Harmony. Culture and medical care and free advice were available to 800 souls.

It couldn't miss, no sirree Bob. God, man and science were all united in a communistic experiment at a time when Russia was largely living in the dark ages.

But it missed, all right. When Owen, the messiah (or dictator) went off to Europe, everything went haywire. The young bucks discovered that it was more fun to dragline catfish, tickle the girls, or snooze under the rainforests than to sweat in the fields. The smart guys suckered the chumps out of their dough. The drones droned, and the workers got mad. In less than a year, Owen's magnificent obsession was a snarl, snappin' hotbed of backbiting and dissension.

(After the big bustup, in 1827, the place just fell back into character, with the rich getting richer, the poor getting poorer, and the bums working the foot-paths for handouts. What we know as free enterprise was king again.)

As I was saying, the old opera house is now a privately owned auto garage. And oil has superseded cultural history as the tired little town's No. 1 industry—if you exclude catfishin' in the river.

Americans Spending Less For Liquor; 8 Billion In 1948

Washington (AP)—Americans apparently drank less intoxicating liquor last year. It's certain they spent less on their drinking.

This was reported by the commerce department, which said the total 1948 outlay for whiskey, beer and wine was an estimated $8,000,000,000. The figure was 8.7 per cent below 1947, and marked the first time since 1933 that the nation's drinkers had spent less than they did the preceding year.

The lower total was due in part to "some decline in price," the department noted, but the main cause was decreased consumption due to a "weakening of demand for items in the luxury class."

The department's figures totalled what was shovelled across bars and store counters by buyers. They did not show the volume of liquor consumed.

The nation spent $2,900,000,000 on whiskey and distilled spirits, $4,445,000,000 on beer, and $455,000,000 on wine. All those figures were below the 1947 totals.

Skin Diseases Are Barometer

Atlantic City, N. J.—A barometer to the nation's financial status can be found in the offices of skin specialists caring for industrial workers. Dr. John Gadow, of Boston University School of Medicine declared at the meeting here of the American Medical association.

When a lay-off is impending, a "flood" of patients with "disabling" skin eruptions comes to the industrial skin specialist's office, he said.

"During the lush period of the war there were no cases of malingering; employees never stopped work except when a severe dermatitis occurred, and they returned before it was relieved," he said.

"During the first two months of this year I have had more cases of claims for slight eruptions with which the patient has worked until he was laid off or sensed a layoff. These workers have learned that a slight eruption on the hands can be labeled as disabling."

"THERE'S NO BETTER STOMACH MEDICINE THAN O-JIB-WA"

John Johnson
Mr. John Johnson writes from Midland, Michigan, that he suffered continually with gas and indigestion, and was so weak, nervous and run down that life was miserable.

The fast pace of modern living puts a continual strain on our nerves and digestive organs. Few people today escape the miseries of gas, indigestion, heartburn, bloating, nervousness and other stomach disorders. For over 35 years, O-JIB-WA BITTERS has helped thousands of people who have suffered with these conditions. The following testimonial of Mr. John Johnson of 346 Oak Street, Midland, is typical and is offered as convincing proof that O-JIB-WA BITTERS is worth your trial if you are suffering from stomach distress.

Everything Turned to Gas
"I have suffered with stomach distress for quite some time, and although I found medicines that brought temporary relief, it was not until I read about O-JIB-WA BITTERS in the local paper, and had tried it, that I realized that O-JIB-WA was the last I had ever taken. Before taking this medicine, everything I ate turned to gas, even a glass of water formed gas on my stomach and I belched continually. At times it was so bad that it would pressure on my lungs and made me short of breath, and my heart would just pound. I have always been an active man, but this stomach trouble and gas really got me down, and I found myself all ways tired and weak. Several times I had to grab a chair or something to keep from falling. My nerves and kidneys were also bad, and very seldom did I get a real good night's sleep.

Results in Just 5 Days
"As bad as I was, O-JIB-WA BITTERS took effect in just 5 days, and now two weeks later, I can eat anything and everything without the slightest distress from gas and indigestion. I now sleep better and feel wide awake and full of pep. My kidneys are improved and in spite of being over 65 years old, I feel better than I have in years. I really was in bad shape before I used this wonderful medicine, and because of what it has done for me, I highly recommend O-JIB-WA BITTERS. I don't think anybody can take anything better for stomach trouble."

Strike at the Cause
O-JIB-WA INDIAN BITTERS is an all-herb medicine which acts to stimulate the digestive system (stomach, liver) to normal, thus overcoming gas, indigestion and heartburn. O-JIB-WA acts to clear the blood of poisons and toxic waste that form daily poisons, headaches, rheumatism. O-JIB-Wa Bitters strengthens weak, sluggish kidneys to stop backaches, night rising and restless nights. ## Nobody In Normandy Shouts "Sieg Heil"

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—Memories of Europe revisited:

There was an old German selling flowers in front of the Press camp in Frankfurt. He held a rose in his mouth while making change for a customer.

"Ten years ago," said someone, "they took the bit in their teeth. Now look—it's flowers."

How to lose friends and alienate Allies department:

It happened after midnight at the Savoy in London. It was one of those international gatherings at which people would rather say something brittle and clever than something true.

They were deep in Scotch and their own frustrations, and talking about things they didn't know—just to get in the knife blade and hurt each other.

"You wouldn't have had an air force without our Rolls Royce engine," said the Englishwoman.

"You Americans are the greatest warmongers in the world."

"No, you British are," said an American.

"Who are the greatest warmongers—we or the Americans?" asked the Englishwoman, turning to a friend.

"The Americans, of course," murmured her friend.

"You're just mad," said the American, "because you don't have anything left to warmonger with."

Wonder what the soldiers in the allied cemeteries would say to either of them?

There is one French town above all others that symbolizes the war to hundreds of thousands of American troops. It is St. Lo, where Hitler's western wall in Normandy was finally breached.

So badly was the town battered from ground and air that there was talk of leaving it, ruined and empty, as an eternal monument to the war—and the price of war.

But the people of St. Lo wanted to come home, and they did. Helped by American generosity, they have made an astonishing recovery. Most of the rubble has been cleared. Entire sections have been rebuilt.

We stood in a churchyard there one Sunday recently—a group of former war correspondents—before a bronze bust erected to the memory of Maj. Thomas Howie, the "Major of St. Lo."

Howie had wanted to be the first man into the town. After he fell in action, troops of the 29th Infantry division carried out his wish. They took his flag-draped body along with the entering task force, and laid it in honor of the

NAHMA

Reception for Fr. Rinehart
Nahma, Mich.—A reception was held in the Civic Center on Sunday for Rev. Charles Rinehart, newly appointed pastor of St. Andrews in Nahma and St. Annes in Isabella. A large crowd was present to welcome the new pastor. After Father Rinehart was introduced to each person by Al Hescott, the evening was spent playing various card games. A group of women served lunch following the social hour.

Rudy Gereau, president of the Holy Name Society, welcomed the new pastor who in turn gave a short response.

Birthday Party

A group of girls arranged a nice party which was held in one of the cabins on the beach in honor of Frannie Berg who was celebrating her seventeenth birthday. Games were played and at the close of the evening a pot luck lunch was served.

Those present were: Nancy Camps, LaVona French, Margaret Gereau, Clara Bingham, Betsy Rogers, Rita Schafer, Betty Newhouse, Marlene Willette, Kathleen Le Claire, Peggy Rogers and Kathleen Hebert.

Leaves for Mexico

J. Earl Cousineau left last Wednesday for Austin, Texas and expected to leave shortly from there on an educational and sightseeing tour of Mexico. Mr.

church.

As we stood there reminiscing an eerie wail split the air—the scream of an air raid siren. Instinctively we started to duck for a ditch. Then, sheepishly, we realized the siren was only signalling the noon hour.

But as long as it sounds—and the monument to Major Howie stands—the people of St. Lo will remember the war every day.

The most successful denazification program in Europe can be found just outside the village of La Cambe in Normandy.

It is a German military cemetery, an epitaph to the Reich Hitler meant to last 1,000 years.

In row after ordered row they dwell under black metal crosses of the fatherland—Der Fuehrer's panzer grenadiers, his black clad paratroopers, his prize storm troopers, with their loyalty locked in their frozen throats.

Many crosses bear the name of the soldier beneath. Many say simply: "Unknown German."

The cemetery was left under French care. And the French, with a stern but honest hospitality, have passed on this responsibility to nature. They didn't invite the Germans in—and they see no reason for honoring those who stayed.

Weeds, thistles, nettles, grass and daisies spring from the sunken graves and wave above the crosses. Here and there a poppy blows in scarlet surprise.

It is a quiet and peaceful place. And nobody shouts, "Sieg Heil!"

Cousineau will drive one of the several automobiles which transports passengers on what is known as "Mexican Journeys". The tour is scheduled for one month and those who go are usually professional people. On the tour that is scheduled for the second month, Mr. Cousineau will be in charge while Mr. Taylor, who manages Mexican Journeys from Austin, leaves with several automobiles on a tour of Europe.

BUMPER POTATO CROP FORESEEN

Delta's 2,000 Acres Of Spuds Growing Fast

Potatoes are really popping in Delta county fields these days as warm weather and plenty of moisture supply good conditions for rapid plant growth.

Although there are several "ifs" to be encountered in the statement of Joe Heirman, county agricultural agent, another bumper potato crop is foreseen—if rainfall this summer is ample and well spaced to provide moisture.

"You can almost see them growing," the county agent reported. "A field that you looked at a few days ago, today will appear different because the plants have grown several inches higher. In many fields the plants are a foot tall."

Regular Spraying
The potatoes are off to a good start in the approximately 2,000 acres planted in the county, but growers were warned by the county agent that now was the time to begin spraying if they have not already started.

The first spray should be made when the plants are six inches above the ground, and the spray should include materials for blight control and DDT to control insects.

Some of the first insects to attack potatoes are the flea beetle, little black bugs that damage the plants by eating holes in the leaves. Later on there will be the Colorado potato beetle, better known to farmers as the potato bug. It is not necessary to include DDT in every spray and farmers can use their own judgment on when to include it for insect control.

Good Hay Crop
To control blight the potato plants should be sprayed every seven days. There are several kinds of materials on the market that will do a good job in protecting fields against blight. Spraying should be at regular intervals and application should be at the rate of 100 gallons of material per acre. As the plants grow larger the material should be increased to 125 to 150 gallons per acre. Later, when the vines are larger, it is important to have two nozzles on top and one on each side of the row to assure complete coverage of the plants. Because of rapid plant growth at the present time the new growth is exposed to blight with two or three days. Regular spraying is important if the plants are to be protected against blight, Heirman said.

Ample moisture also assures a good hay crop, and grains will produce well if the weather is not hot and dry at the time of ripening, the county agent reported.

St. Paul Nibbles On Indians' Lead

By the Associated Press

While rain made the league-leading Indians idle last night, St. Paul went to work to defeat Louisville 7-1 and chop the Tribe's edge to 1½ games in the hot American Association rivalry.

David Barnhill, Minneapolis' 28-year-old Negro twirler, blanketed Columbus 7-0 for his second win.

The Kansas City Blues avoided the cellar—remaining 1½ games ahead of Toledo—with a 6-3 decision over the Mudhens. Dave Madison was the winner although he was touched for at least one hit in each frame. He whiffed 11.

Toledo abandoned 14 runners. Among Madison's 11 hits was a three-run homer by Bobby Mavis in the sixth—his eighth circuit clout.

Government To Aid Metal Miners, But It May Be Too Late

By SAM DAWSON

New York (AP)—The government is about to come to the aid of the metal miners. But some of the currently harassed non-ferrous metals industry fear that the buying for the stockpile, about to be stepped up, will be too little and too late.

These critics haven't seen eye-to-eye with the government stockpilers right along. They tried to keep the government from stockpiling while copper, lead and zinc were scarce. They charge the government's insistence on competing with civilians for the short metals helped send prices to their postwar highs.

They also contend that by buying at these high prices, the government used up funds it could spend to better advantage now, both for itself and the industry. Prices have been deflated. And the lack of civilian demand for metal has closed mines.

President Truman signed a bill Wednesday which provides $40 million for stockpiling of strategic minerals and metals in the fiscal year ending next Thursday. The stockpile is to assure the United States of adequate supplies in time of war.

Lead producers say the government is contracting to buy some of their stocks with at least part of this money available for just a week. As of the first of this month 94,000 tons of lead were in producers' hands, their stocks having jumped about 22,000 tons during May.

Government stockpilers will also have $525 million for building up their stocks during the fiscal year starting a week from today, and are already talking turkey with the mine owners, to be ready to buy when the money is released by the treasury.

Lead producers hope that their share of this stockpiling will run between 50,000 and 200,000 tons within the next 12 months. Lead now is selling at 12 cents a pound. It was 21½ cents last March.

Copper producers say that government stockpilers have been talking to them, too. They think their contracts in the next 12 months may run around 140,000 tons. Copper is now down to 16 cents a pound. The government was paying 23½ cents a pound last winter when it was adding copper to its stockpile.

Lawyer Threatened With Death To Quit In Communist Trial

New York, June 29 (AP)—The defense in the Communist conspiracy trial said yesterday that one of its lawyers, Richard Gladstein, was threatened with death if he did not quit the case.

The defense said in a statement that the San Francisco lawyer's wife had received the threats from a man who made two telephone calls early Monday morning.

Mrs. Gladstein, the defense said, wrote to Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien informing him of the threats and asking that the police "take whatever steps are necessary to insure the safety of my family."

Later in the day, the police said the letter had not been received.

The incident recalled reports of anonymous threats early in the trial, which started Jan. 17.

On Jan. 28, Federal Judge Harold R. Medina announced from the bench that he had received threatening "communications." Harry Sacher of defense counsel then said he, other defense lawyers and the eleven top Communist leaders on trial all had been threatened with violence in anonymous letters.

One Baby Survives Blue Tinge Illness Blamed On Diapers

Lake Wales, Fla., June 29 (AP)—Eight-day-old Nola Frances Land was holding her own today against the "blue tinge" illness which brought death to four other infants in the Lake Wales hospital nursery.

State Attorney W. W. Woolfolk was expected to complete today his investigation of the strange attacks, which caused a bluish skin discoloration to come and go. The discoloration first appeared June 21, a few hours after the hospital used a batch of diapers stamped with marking ink containing an aniline dye. They were used only on five children, Nola Frances and the four who died.

An official report by Woolfolk's office yesterday said two pediatricians had diagnosed the illness as resulting from the diaper dye. The infants, all only a few days old, at first appeared to respond to treatment. Then one died unexpectedly Saturday, another death followed Sunday, a third Monday morning and the fourth Monday night.

Husband Sleeping, Wife Attacked In Belle Isle Woods

Detroit, June 29 (AP)—A 26-year-old white woman reported to police that a Negro carried her away from her sleeping husband today and raped her in the thick woods of Belle Isle.

She said he held a razor to her throat to keep her from screaming. Police barricaded the Belle Isle bridge for several hours as they searched the island. They found no trace of the attacker.

The woman, whose name was withheld, and her husband were sleeping on the ground beside their car. She said they had gone to the island park to escape the heat.

The victim said she was awakened about 2 a. m. by a man's hands clutching at her. "I started to scream," she said, "but he was holding a razor against my throat. He said, 'if you make any noise, I'm going to kill you.'"

She said the Negro carried her into the woods and forced her to undress. Then he attacked her. Afterwards, she said, she fled only partially clothed. A passing motorist picked her up and took her to the police station.

Blockade of Ports In China Won't Be Recognized by U. S.

Washington, June 29 (AP)—The United States today refused to recognize as legal a Chinese government order closing ports in Chinese Communist hands.

The state department announced a note to the government at Canton declaring that this country "cannot admit the legality" of barriers against shipping into the Communist ports unless the Chinese government "declares and maintains an effective blockade."

Secretary of State Acheson told a news conference that there are many historical precedents for the American position. He described it as reserving the rights of American citizens in the Chinese situation.

The British government, Acheson said, has taken a somewhat more extreme position than that of the United States.

MAN DROWNS, WIFE SAVED

Grand Rapids, (AP)—The boat from which Elwood Beckwith, 36, of Grand Rapids, and his wife were fishing in Reeds Lake Tuesday overturned when they tried to change places. Beckwith was drowned. His wife, Leslie, was rescued by a canoeist.

Deer Visits Folks Here Tuesday Night

The deer that took a leap into an Escanaba gift shop earlier this year must be telling stories of wild adventure to his brothers.

Last night, A. H. Kamps of Marinette, a truck driver for an Escanaba firm, saw a rather large deer come down North 11th street, circle in the arterial intersection of Ludington and 11th street, and go south on 11th street. The deer dashed into an open doorway of a South 11th street garage, came out, and headed south on South 11th street.

Children reported seeing the deer on South 13th street, where it hopped over a parked car, and later was seen near St. Francis hospital. He was first seen about 7:30 p. m.

Truman Beaten In Taft-Hartley Vote Of Senate

told a reporter the outlook "doesn't look too bright" in view of what happened yesterday. He meant the 50-to-40 vote in favor of the Taft plan to delay critical strikes by Taft-Hartley style injunctions or government seizure of plants, or both.

Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) said it appeared that "anti-labor forces" were in control of the Senate and would succeed in passing such an "unwise" bill that "the issue will have to go to the people."

Senator Morse (R-Ore.) said yesterday's action made the labor bill so "unworkable and anti-labor" that any further efforts to improve it would be "a waste of time."

An influential Democratic senate official told reporters privately he is positive in his own mind that the final measure emerging from Congress will be vetoed.

Lucas today was seeking to dispose of the labor debate quickly. Overnight he tried to get unanimous senate agreement to vote by 2 p. m. tomorrow on the "Taft substitute" for the entire administration labor bill except the national emergency provision.

The loudest objection to an early vote came from Senator Ives (R-N.Y.). He told the Senate he had a dozen amendments to the Taft substitute.

And today he told a reporter he has "only just begun" his efforts to get a better labor bill.

Old Features Retained
The Taft substitute would preserve such Taft-Hartley features as these:

The ban on closed shop contracts that require all employees to be union members; the independence of the Federal Mediation Service; the provision that employers don't have to bargain with their foremen; the ban on mass picketing; and the use of temporary injunctions in unfair labor practice cases.

On the other hand, Taft would abandon such Taft-Hartley provisions as:

The independent "general counsel" of the National Labor Relations Board with sole authority to prosecute cases; the provision that now says men on strike can't vote in plant elections; and the blanket prohibition against all secondary boycotts (union efforts to exert pressure on one company by forcing other companies to quit doing business with it).

Girl Dies In Auto At Riverdale, Ill.; Escort Speechless

Chicago, June 29 (AP)—A 17-year-old girl died in an automobile in suburban Riverdale today under circumstances which police said were unexplained.

Her male escort, speechless from the effects of a poison he said was forced upon the girl and himself by two men, was under treatment in a hospital.

The dead girl was Miss Joan Coward, Worth, Ill. Her companion was Arthur Marino, 27, of Blue Island, Ill., a salesman, who had been courting the girl a year.

Police Sgt. William Nottorf said Marino drove up to the Riverdale police station at 543 a. m. Unable to talk, Marino pointed to the rear seat where the girl's body, with shoes and stockings removed, lay partly on the back seat.

Nottorf summoned an inhalator squad which worked over the girl for 45 minutes but was unable to revive her.

The officer said a bottle partly filled with ammonia was found in the car.

Nottorf said there were bruises on the young woman's head, face and neck.

Although unable to speak, Marino informed police by notes that two men had forced them to drink from a bottle. He said the men came upon them while he and Miss Coward were seated in Marino's parked car near Riverdale.

Showers Again Skip Northeast States

Chicago, June 29 (AP)—More hot and humid weather was the forecast today for areas from the Rocky Mountains to the Middle Atlantic states.

Some rain fell in the hot belt during the night, but there was no rain in the parched northeastern states where crops have suffered damage from lack of moisture.

The mercury hit into the 90's over the northern plains, the south and southwest and much of the midwest. Similar readings were expected today.

Court's 1892 Edict Dug Up To Rescue Quorum-Short Laws

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, June 29 (AP)—Congress leaders today dug up a 57-year old supreme court decision and decided a brand new ruling of the high court doesn't junk hundreds of the nation's laws after all.

The 1892 case was hauled out in the light of the court's action Monday upstating the perjury conviction of Harold R. Christoffel, former Milwaukee labor leader.

Christoffel was convicted of falsely denying he was a Communist before the house labor committee in 1947. But, the court held, because a majority of the committee was not present when the statements were made, there was doubt that the committee was a "competent tribunal."

That caused some concern in Congress, which frequently passes bills with less than a majority of members present. But then attention was called to the 1892 case.

In its decision then, the supreme court held in effect that the journals of Congress cannot be impeached; if the journals say a bill was passed, that court said, and if the presiding officers attest that the bill was passed, then for all legal purposes the bill was passed.

Frequently bills pass through the House with as few as 20 members present, although technically a quorum, or 218, should be on hand. But, if no one objects to the absence of a quorum, the journal shows simply that the bill was passed.

"And that makes it official," a House leader said. "You cannot go behind the journal. The supreme court made that clear in 1892."

However, one result of the new court ruling may be that attendance at Congressional committees will be better hereafter.

Bomb Blast Blows Up 1948 Sedan On Cleveland Street

Cleveland, June 29 (AP)—A bomb explosion blew an automobile into the air as high as a multi-story building.

The car, a 1948 sedan, was parked across the street from the Sovereign hotel. It was unoccupied at the time.

Although there were no reports of injuries, parts of the car were found scattered over a 500-yard area. The explosion was heard for blocks.

Police were at a loss to account for the blast. They said the car had been used by Herbert Taina, 23, and Jerome Friedman, both of Newark, who were here on business for a Newark Linen Supply company.

Taina and Friedman were in the Sovereign hotel at the time of the explosion.

A cab driver, Robert Cahn, 25, said he saw two men in a grey sedan drive up immediately after the blast, inspect the shattered car and then drive quickly away.

Cahn gave this description of the explosion:

"A fender flew high over a tall tree in front of the hotel. The roof went about 400 feet in one direction and the hood 80 feet in another. Broken glass and debris were scattered all over the place."

Stones were used for cannonballs in early artillery.

Defense Reveals Death Story At Roanoke Church

fortunate" fight between two 16-year-old children.

Yes, Messick conceded, Scott slugged the girl with a pop bottle and choked her. But it was during a fight Scott started when Dana Marie cast reflections on her former boy friend, Jimmy Webb, a high school wrestling champion that athlete Scott regarded as something of a hero, the attorney said.

Then the attorney related for the first time the story Scott told his attorneys and authorities May 21 while under the influence of an injection of truth serum.

The story—"and I do not ask acquittal, he deserves some punishment," Messick said—was this: Scott went to Christ Episcopal church where he had worshipped that Sunday morning to meet a friend, Fred Bradley, for a table tennis match. He was there waiting when Dana Marie came in. She had come to attend a young people's meeting, unaware that the group had gone on a picnic.

Hit With Bottle
They chatted, decided to play table tennis but couldn't find the equipment. Then they went to the kitchen on the second floor for cokes from the refrigerator.

It was while they stood drinking their soft drinks that Dana mentioned her former friend, Webb. She criticized him, said he was no good—that he'd won the state wrestling championship by luck.

"Lee remonstrated with her," Messick said.

"She criticized Webb some more—criticized this friend who was a hero to Buddy Scott... that boy hit her with a bottle... then they got into a fight and she clawed him with her long fingernails. He grabbed her and choked her."

Messick said the boy went home and didn't know until 11 o'clock the next day that Dana Marie was dead.

The defense chief said also he would show by medical testimony that Scott suffered from "temporary amnesia."

But opening for the prosecution, associate Beverly Fitzpatrick said Scott when confronted by authorities at first denied being at the church. Scott was picked up when an anonymous telephone call reported that students at Jefferson High had left scratch marks on his face and hands looked suspicious.

Finally, Fitzpatrick said, Scott admitted meeting Dana Marie at the church.

"He remembered struggling on the floor and wrestling with her," the prosecutor said. He remembered coming down the stairs and wiping blood off his hands with the cloth bag from a coffee urn. He told us where we could find the bag and pop bottle."

And, said Fitzpatrick to the jury—mostly made up of parents—"we will ask you to punish Lee Scott according to the law."

He asked for no specific punishment. In Virginia first degree murder is punishable by from 20 years imprisonment to death.

A manslaughter conviction carries a maximum of five years.

Rates Are Reduced On Auto Insurance

Michigan Companies Will Make Cuts July 1

Lansing, June 29 (AP)—A second group of automobile insurance companies today announced reduction of fire, theft and collision rates and a revision of public liability and property damage rates effective July 1.

Fire, theft and collision rates for companies affiliated with the Michigan Bureau of Casualty companies, will go down an average of 16.9 per cent all over the state.

The rate for cars driven in business or by those under 25 will be reduced 12.5 per cent and for cars driven only for personal use by those over 25, 17.5 per cent.

Public liability and property damage rates will decrease in most areas of the state except around Flint, where bureau records show the loss has been high.

The companies affected include Auto-Owners Insurance Co., the Wolverine Insurance Co., the Preferred Insurance Co. of Grand Rapids, the Dearborn National Insurance Co., the Michigan Mutual Automobile Insurance Co. of Traverse City and a number of out of state companies.

The group is paid approximately $15,000,000 annually in premiums.

The new rates, which have been approved by State Insurance Commissioner David A. Forbes, are similar to revisions announced two weeks ago by a group of eastern companies doing business in Michigan.

Uncle Sam bought 49,493,000 pounds of Turkish tobacco in 1948, compared with an annual average of 20,669,000 pounds.

Hay Field Care Will Be Feature Of Farm Roundup

Ways to increase the production of Upper Peninsula alfalfa hay fields will be one of the feature topics at the thirtieth annual Farmers' Round-Up to be held at Chatham on Friday, August 5.

Russell E. Horwood, superintendent of the experiment station there, believes that hay is an important part of the crop program of northern farmers. Much research on this subject has been carried on at Chatham under the direction of Arthur R. Wolcott, station agronomist.

Fertilizer demonstrations on legume grass mixtures at Chatham and in tests in Upper Peninsula counties have shown that potash both increases yield and helps maintain alfalfa stands.

A test in Menominee county last year with an application of 300 pounds per acre of 0-20-20 fertilizer brought an increase of 124 percent in the yield of an alfalfa-grass mixture. The proportion of alfalfa to grass in the mixture was increased, which resulted in increased protein content of the hay, so that better feeding value was gained.

Wolcott recommends that 300 to 500 pounds of 0-20-20 fertilizer be used as a top dressing on such hay. For lighter soils, a similar application of 0-9-27 may be used. Application of the fertilizer is best made in August.

Plots treated in this manner will be shown at Chatham during the round-up so that farmers may compare fertilized and unfertilized stands. Alfalfa thus treated winters better and the stand is longer lived.

Also on view will be plots of rust resistant Ranger and Ladak alfalfa as well as the popular Grimm and Hardigan varieties.

SCHAFER

Schaffer, Mich. — The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John LaFleur of Milwaukee was baptized Saturday afternoon at the Sacred Heart church, the ceremony performed by Rev. W. Pelletier. The child was named Linda Ann. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jacobs who were married on the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Hurtubise and children of Racine are visiting at the Edmond Hurtubise home. Terry Raaymakers of Grand Rapids is also vacationing there.

Mrs. Joseph Lavigne and Mrs. Thomas Tonsignant left for Marquette to start a six weeks course in N. M. C. E.

Electronic Machine To Prevent Deaths On Operating Table

Detroit, (P)—A new electronic machine which "sees" and measures the amount of oxygen in the bloodstream may eventually help save thousands of patients from death on the operating table.

The device — called an osyhemoglobinograph — was developed here by a team of scientists from Henry Ford hospital and General Motors Research.

It consists, chiefly, of a photo-electric eye attached to the lobe of a patient's ear. The eye measures the redness or blueness of the blood in the ear.

If the blood has a lot of oxygen, it will be red. If short of oxygen, the blood will be blue. The eye detects even the faintest variations, and sends out a faint impulse. This signal, amplified a million times, is recorded on tape by an ink arm.

Formerly, anesthetists and surgeons have had to rely on their own observations to tell them when a patient needed more blood. They watched his color, pulse, blood pressure and rate of breathing.

The apparatus so far has been used on a limited scale in complicated operations. With complete success reported, its inventors now are expanding its use so they can test the condition of heart patients of every type. It is expected to be especially useful to surgeons in blue baby cases, and can also be used on victims of lung diseases.

Dr. Frank W. Hartman, one of its inventors, explained:

"With this device, the doctor can be much more secure during long, complicated surgery, such as an eight hour operation. The apparatus will indicate how well the patient is responding to surgery."

In "blue baby" cases, he noted, the surgeon severs and rearranges arteries and veins inside the chest to raise the oxygen content of the child's blood.

"In some cases," he said, "the machine has indicated that the most effective arrangement of blood vessels was not achieved in as many as three different combinations." Fourth tries, he said, brought the oxygen indicator up to normal.

Working with Dr. Hartman were Dr. Roy D. McClure, M. C., and Dr. Vivian G. Behrmann, Ph. D., all of the Ford hospital staff. C. F. Kettering of GM Research assisted in development of the eye and recorder.

British coal production in 1948 totaled 208 million tons—11 million tons more than 1947 production, but still below the prewar level.

SAFETY STUDY WILL BE MADE

Logging Accidents Will Be Checked

Houghton—Robert R. Hagen, of the staff of the mechanical engineering department of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology was recently assigned to a special project to be conducted under the supervision of the Forest Products Research Division of the college. Hagen's assignment stands for the summer months, and he will return to his departmental duties at the beginning of the fall term.

Working under the direction of Leland W. Hooker, timber technologist in charge of logging research, Hagen will conduct an intensive study of the cause and prevention of accidents in the logging industry. A major part of his time will be spent in logging operations and connected activities, where he will interview operators and loggers and seek their suggestions on methods of accident prevention.

The results of Hagen's study will be published in the form of a logging safety handbook. The project was originally proposed by a joint committee of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers Association and the Timber Producers Association. The Forest Products Research Advisory Committee of the college approved the plans and authorized the assignment of Hagen.

CHATHAM

Laakso-Seppi Wedding

Chatham, Mich.—Miss Alice Laakso, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ulvi of Chatham was united in marriage to Edwin Arvid Seppi of Chatham at a double ring ceremony performed by the Reverend Matt Reid of Automba, Minn. at seven o'clock Saturday evening, June 18 at the Apostolic Lutheran church of Eben.

Miss Mildred Lampi, a close friend of the bride, was maid-of-honor and Miss Alli Koski and Miss Arlene Laakso, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. Richard Matthews of Kipling was best man and Norman Laakso, brother of the bride and Bruce Whitmarsh of Trautvik were escorts.

The bride wore a gown of lace trimmed white satin with a net yoke, long sleeves, and a train. Her net veil was fastened with a tiara of rhinestones and seed pearls, and she wore a pearl necklace. She carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Lampi wore a pink taffeta formal, a small pink tulle head veil, and carried a bouquet of white peonies. Miss Koski wore a lavender taffeta formal, with matching head veil, and also carried white peonies. Miss Arlene Laakso wore a yellow taffeta formal with matching tulle head veil, and carried an arm bouquet of white peonies.

The chancel of the church was prettily decorated with basket bouquets of blue lupines and yellow lilies against a background of cedar. A white carpet was spread for the bride. Norman Laakso, brother of the bride, sang "Oh Perfect Love" accompanied by Mrs. Carl Zeno at the organ. Mrs. Zeno then sang "Because" and played "Oh Promise Me". The bride was given away by her stepfather, Matt Ulvi.

The bride's mother wore a pink moire taffeta formal with a pink hat and white shoes, purse and gloves. She was ushered in by her son, Norman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held on the lawn in front of the church. Later in the church parlors the bride cut the four-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake along with other refreshments was served to over 300 guests by the bride's aunts, Mrs. Harold Antilla, Mrs. George Laakso, Mrs. Tom Laakso,

Mrs. Clarence Smith and Mrs. Gunnar Benson.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of the 1947 class of Eben High school. The bride is employed as stenographer in the Experiment Station office and the groom is employed by the Northern Dairy Co. of Marquette. During the summer months the couple will live in the Christofferson apartment.

A pre-nuptial shower was given by Miss Alli Koski and Miss Jennie Jarvinen at the home of the bride on the Tuesday evening preceding the wedding.

A bridal dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents on the day of the wedding and a luncheon was served in the late afternoon at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Walfrid Michelson.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kifonen and son, Mrs. Toivo Koski, Iron River, Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Johnson and family, Mr. Adolph Keppila, Ishpeming, Ben Knaus, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Trepanier and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O'Leary, Ted Pulver, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Martens, Joseph Burns, Marquette; Mrs. Jerry Knaus, Chicago; Miss Mary Ann Pelki, Seney.

Many Fractures
In Ski Mishaps

Atlantic City.—Would-be skiers may have their enthusiasm damped by the report here today that in five years 305 major fractures resulted on the slopes of Mt. Mansfield in the Stowe, Vt., area. Dr. Robert L. Maynard told the American Medical association that in addition there were more than 200 patients who were given medical or surgical treatment for other injuries at the small Copley hospital. This still does not take into account the many who received treatment elsewhere, after suffering injuries on these same slopes.

The ski injuries were most often broken leg bones. Other accidents resulted in broken arms, ribs or pelvis. Dr. Maynard pointed out that twisting strains are responsible in the majority of cases for fractures in the lower part of the body among ski casualties.

Secretaries Give
Pointers to the White Collar Girl

Chicago, June 29 (AP)—A group of men who do the dictating to secretaries said today that next to marriage, the boss-secretary relationship is one of the most delicate human relations problems facing men.

They came up with some pointers to the 1,000 white collar girls here for the National Secretaries' Association convention.

Some of them are:
Be compatible, but not too compatible.

When the boss' wife calls, be diplomatic.

Keep the tired businessman's pills straight.

No baby talk to beaux—remember the telephone is for business.

Dress with decorum, not décolleté. The boss wants to keep his mind on his work.

Correct the boss's grammar and spelling, but do it tactfully.

Reach the office at least as early as the boss.

Take the details off his shoulders.

Skip the flowers, but not the dust.

And take messages that won't need the decoding of a top secret.

The suggestions came from a panel of businessmen which included General Jonathan M. Wainwright, national commander for the Disabled American Veterans; James W. Alsdorf, president of an appliance manufacturing concern; Ernest L. Byfield, hotel president; Wallace O. Ollman, general manager of Chicago's largest office building; Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council; Philip Wyman, vice-president of a piano company, and Ray Ireland, an airlines vice-president.

Mrs. Clara Hirt of Iron Mountain is visiting at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Anderson, River Road.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Reid and children of Gladstone visited here over the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slining, Lake street.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Taylor have left for a few days visit with relatives and friends in Crystal Falls, Marquette, and other points in the Upper Peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lyntz and son, Clyde, and Miss Shirley Patz visited relatives in Sault Ste. Marie on Sunday.

Those who have left for Michigan where they will attend youth camp at Presbytery Point are Woody Taylor, Clifford Anderson, Jan LeDuc, Richard Martin, and Bim Gero. They were accompanied by Dan Van Eyck who will serve on the staff as counselor.

Floyd Archey, M. M. 3/c, arrived here Tuesday morning from Norfolk, Va., to spend 20 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Archey, Delta avenue. He has just returned from the Mediterranean where he was on duty on the destroyer Charles R. Ware.

Guests over the weekend at the home of Misses Geraldine and Genevieve Gorsche, Arbutus avenue were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morin, Winamac, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schroeder and son, Indianapolis; and Miss Ruth Herbst of Gary, Ind. They returned to their homes today.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Houghton and family have arrived here from Centerline to spend a week visiting at the Adam Houghton home on Garden avenue.

Former Local Woman Featured In Publication

In a publication called "Friends" a former Manistique resident is featured. She is Mrs. Helen Cloutier, of Escanaba, who in the writeup is listed as a radio "ham" who has operated her own station since 1920. During the war, she taught radio to the armed forces. The article continues "This busy mother of two sons is also a photographer, writer, painter and musician."

Mrs. Cloutier is the former Helen Hargreaves, daughter of Mrs. Carrie Hargreaves. Her father, the late H. H. Hargreaves, was also widely known as an amateur radio operator.

Harbor Here Is Being Dredged Of Silt And Sand

The Manistique harbor is being dredged of the accumulation of sand and silt that has gathered on the harbor in the course of the past two years.

The sand sucker "Haines" and its crew arrived here the first of the week. Sand and muck is pumped into the hold of the boat and then transported to deep water where the bottom of the mid part of the ship is opened and the cargo dumped.

The work is being done under the direction of the Corps of Army Engineers with headquarters at Milwaukee.

It is not regarded likely that any rock obstructions will be dislodged at this time.

Ask For Helpers At Scout Day Camp

Plans for the operation of a Day Camp at Trailer Park for Manistique Brownie Scouts and Intermediate troops will have to be abandoned if a sufficient number of mothers do not volunteer their services to assist with the camp. It was announced today. Mothers are needed to serve as unit leaders, and college and high school girls and Senior girl scouts are also asked to volunteer as program aides.

Two camping periods are planned, July 12-15, and July 19-22, with four units operating for each week. Mrs. Leonard Puranen has been engaged as camp director, and any persons wishing to offer their help for either week are asked to notify her.

CORNELL

Return From Trip
Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Corbisier and sons, David and Dale, have returned from a month's vacation in the "Magic Valley" of Idaho near Twin Falls. They visited with the Herman Brinker family, former Cornell residents, and also with relatives and friends in Wisconsin and Iowa on the trip. They enjoyed wonderful weather and good roads during the entire vacation. Mr. Corbisier says that the region was rightly named the "magic valley of Idaho" as one can see the crops change and grow almost daily. The valley is one of the largest irrigated sections of the country and is devoted almost entirely to raising garden seeds for many large seed companies.

Uncle Sam has nearly 29 million youngsters between the ages of 5 and 17.

Housing Shortage Bothers Lobsters

By Science Service
Los Angeles—A housing shortage may mean a shortage of lobsters here.

Zoologists at the University of California are making a study of the southern California spiny lobster situation for the California Fish and Game commission. One suggestion which is being investigated is the construction of lobster homes—thousands of feet of hollow tile or some sort of prefabricated concrete to protect the lobsters from hungry fish foes.

A UCLA graduate student, Robert Lindbergh, is in charge of the comprehensive study, under the general supervision of Dr. Theodore Bullock.

PERKINS

Williams-Schneider
Perkins.—Miss Eunice Grace Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Williams of Perkins, exchanged marriage vows with William S. Schneider, jr., son of Mrs. William Schneider, sr., of Roseville, Mich., in a double ring ceremony performed by Elder Joseph Wellman of Port Huron at the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints' in Detroit, June 11.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, John Herbert, Jr., wore a gown of white slipper satin with a lace yoke and court train and a fingertip veil gathered to a pearl coronet. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace and she carried white roses and carnations. Mrs. Albert DeRouin, her cousin, who was bridesmaid, wore yellow marquisette with a matching headdress and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations.

Albert DeRouin was best man. Dick Tuesday sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." Martin Wintermyer was organist.

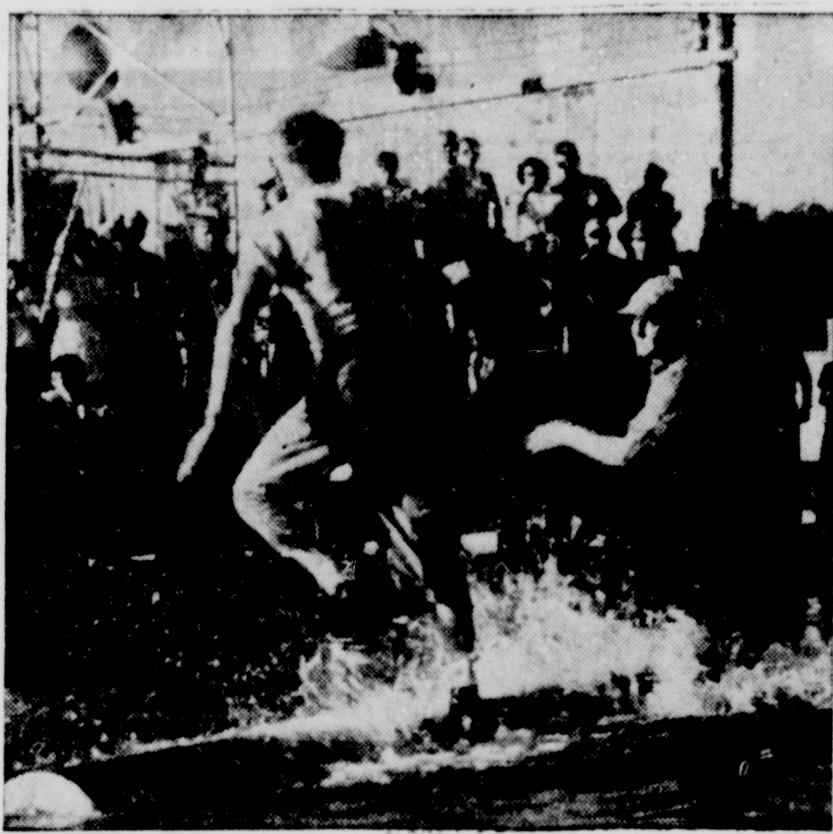

Mrs. Williams attended the wedding in a blue print with white accessories and Mrs. Schneider wore a black print. Pink and white carnations formed their corsages.

A wedding dinner was served at the Ingleside Inn and an evening reception held at the Schneider home. The newlyweds are living in Roseville at 17260 Wildwood. The bride was with the Detroit Osteopathic hospital for the past five years. Her husband who served in the armed forces for four and one-half years is with the Kaiser Construction Co. of Roseville.

Personals

TROUT FARM

A 12-acre lake where 7,000 trout rise eagerly to any bait sounds like an angler's dream. But on the Berkshire Trout Farm in the heart of Massachusetts' rolling Berkshire hills that dream is a reality. On the farm, one of the largest privately owned fish hatcheries in the country, brook and speckled trout are raised from egg to maturity. Many of the big fish end up on urban dining tables. Others are sold to stock natural streams. They're shipped out in oxygenated steel tanks. The farm's cold storage rooms where a large number of the fish are quick-frozen have a capacity of 500,000 pounds. Its huge hatchery troughs drain into big artificial fish runs and rearing ponds and finally into the lake where outsiders are allowed to try their skill with rod and reel. Altogether, the farm has some half million trout. The farm and its operations are pictured here.

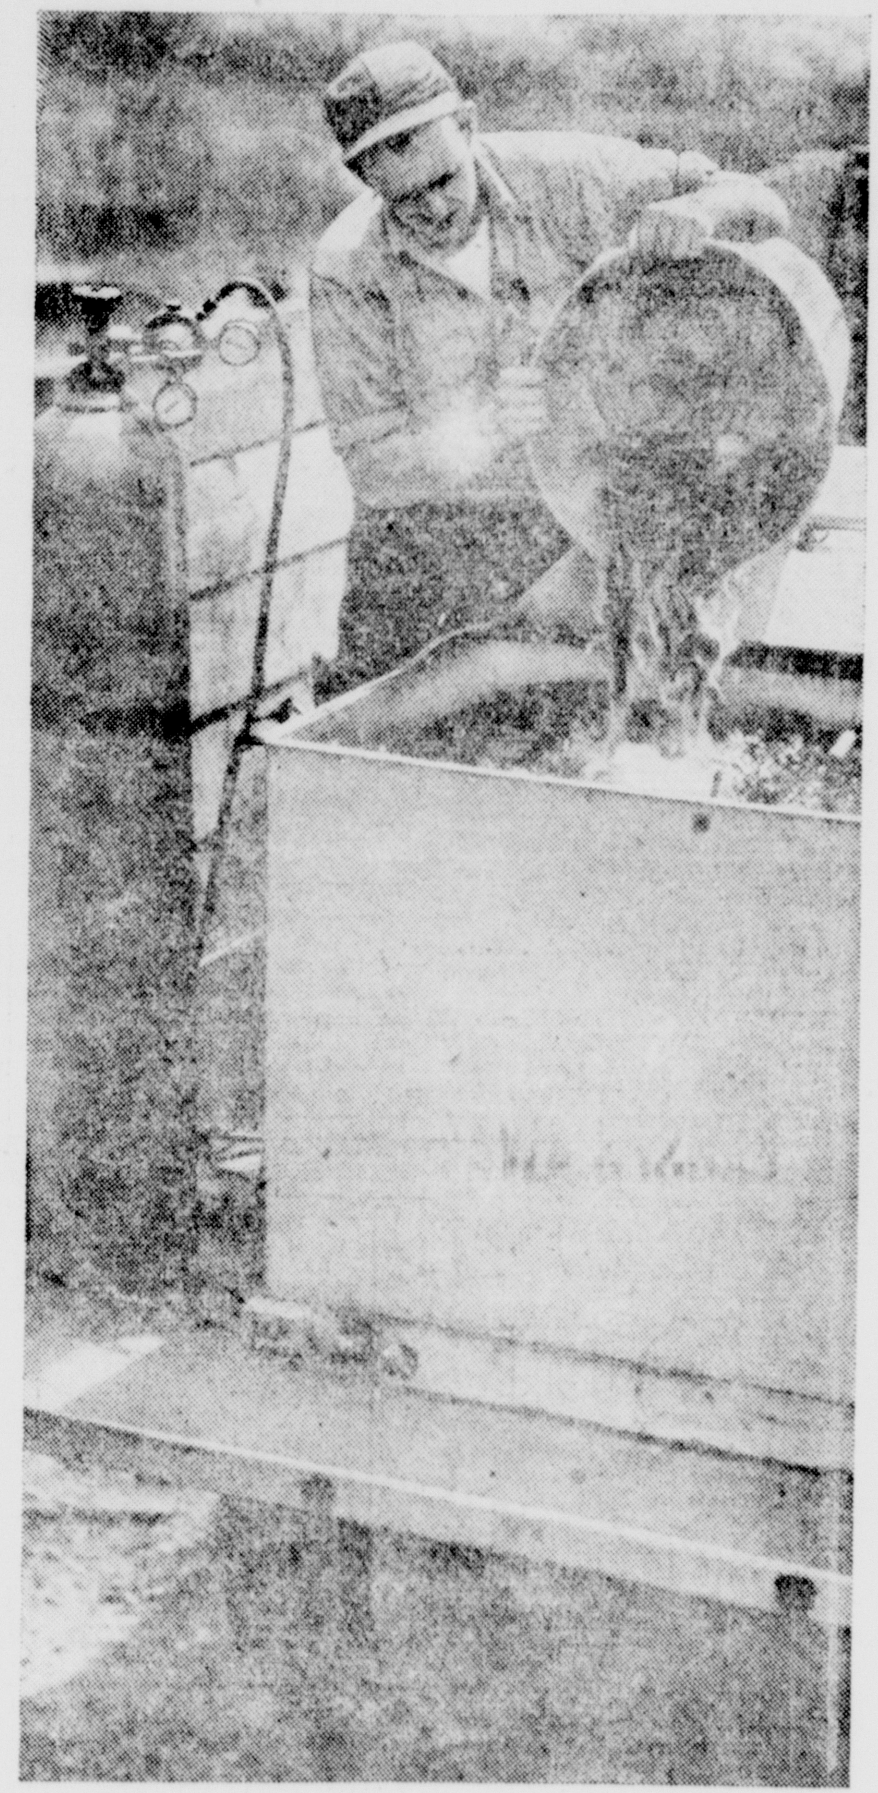

1. SCREENING. Nelson Young carefully examines the trout eggs on one of the screens in the farm's huge hatchery.

FINE FELLOW. Nelson Young proudly displays a 10-inch trout before depositing it into the lake.

2. TRAPPED. With aid of screen, employees corner fully grown trout in one of the rearing troughs.

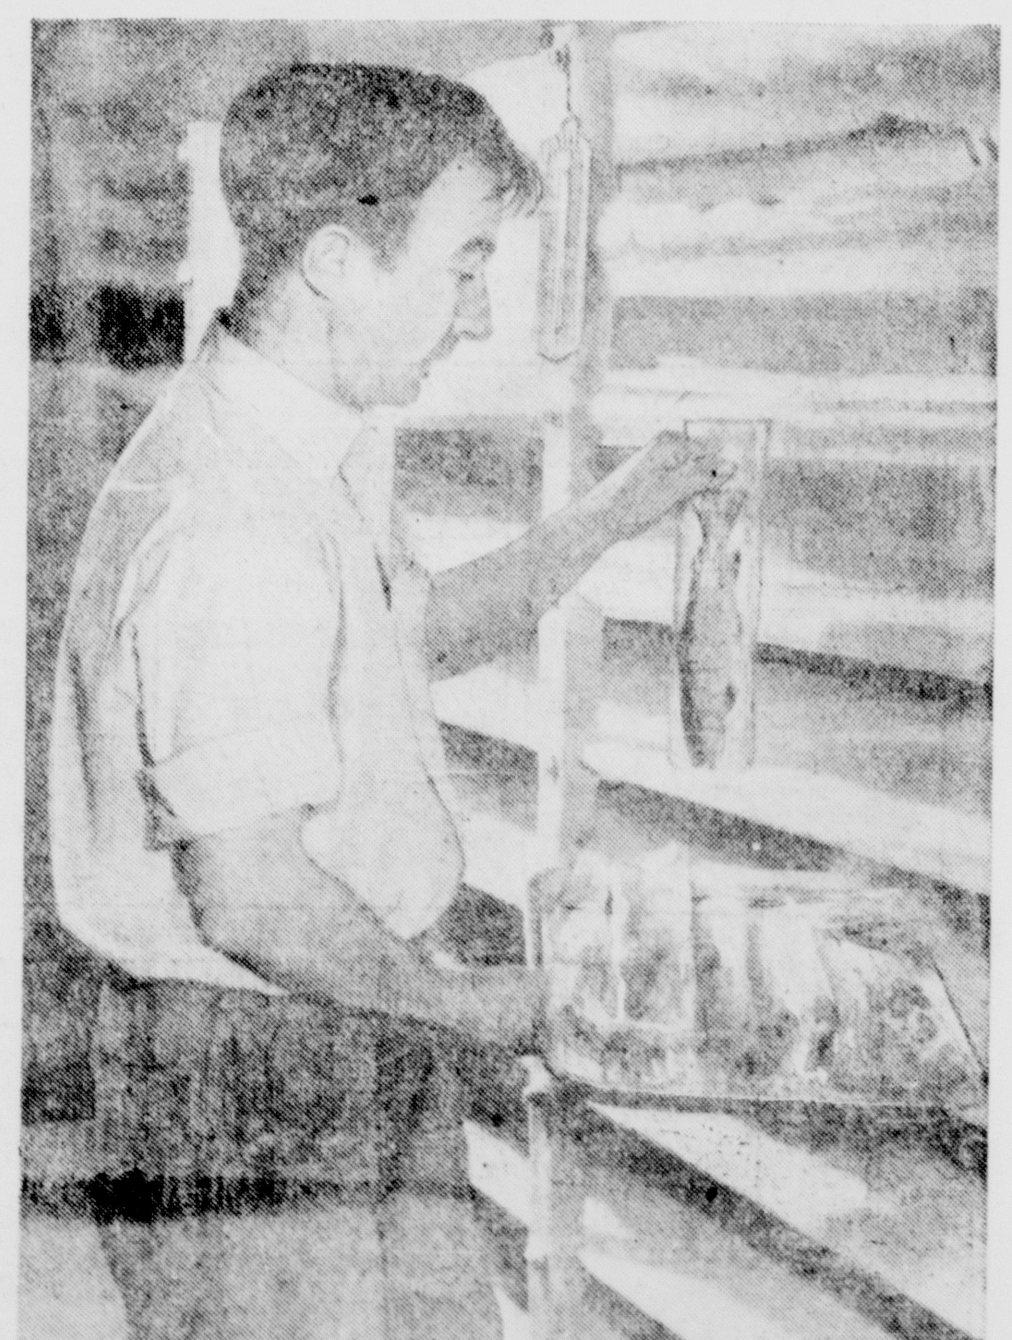

3. TROUT for private streams are shipped by truck. Oxygen tank keeps fish supplied with breathable water.

4. TEMPTING. Fishermen aren't the only ones who go for trout. The angler's pet leaps high to get his teeth on the tasty morsel.

5. NICE CATCH. Pretty Beatrice Murtha doesn't have to go far to net her speckled catch. Visitors have the privilege of fishing in the lake.

6. ON ICE. The quick-frozen trout are removed from shelves in cold storage room, then wrapped in cellophane for shipment to city.

111 Cedar StreetNew Street Lighting
System Needed Here,
Says City Manager

Drastic revamping of the city's street lighting system—particularly the boulevard lighting system along the city's business streets—was recommended as a must by City Manager H. W. Heideman, at Monday night's meeting of the Manistique city council.

The present wiring system, he said, is in a makeshift state and may cause serious trouble. Not only that, he pointed out, there are numerous places where exposed wiring, scantily taped, constitutes a positive menace to public safety.

The city manager recommended a complete rewiring of the lighting system with four circuits replacing the present system of two, with a complete duct system installed so that a break will not mean a complete blackout.

The plans proposed by him include a substation to be built on the waterfront lot which would replace the present long outmoded system now in use.

Most of the standards in the downtown section, he said, would have to be either moved or replaced. Many of them have been rendered useless when motorists crashed into them.

Blacktop For Walnut St.
The city manager also recommended that Walnut street, from Maple street to Pearl street, be widened, that concrete curb and gutters be built and that the street be treated with a building base of stone and gravel, capped with blacktop.

Urge Vet Counselor
At the council meeting a committee from the Schoolcraft Council of Veterans Affairs, headed by Merrill Johnson, requested that the council appropriate $1,200 toward the maintenance of a full time counselor. Later in the evening, Dr. James Fyvie and Dr. Merle Wehner appeared in behalf of the same cause. The services of a counselor, they stated, was not only a matter of vital importance to the veteran or the veterans widow in arranging for hospitalization, rehearing on claims and the multitude of other problems confronting them and their problems, but it is a sound community investment as well for the money paid in adjustment of claims and the allowance of pensions has brought thousands to the community.

Johnson stated that along with the $1,200 expected from the city, $1,500 would be requested from the county and about $800 from the townships in the county. The proposal was taken under advisement.

Frank Gierke, appearing in behalf of the Lions club, requested that the usual license fee required of circuses showing in the city be remitted to one whose appearance is being sponsored by the Lions club. The request was granted.

A like request made by the volunteer fire department in behalf of a carnival to show here under their sponsorship was granted.

A representative of Radio Station WMAM appeared before the council to ascertain whether the Information Center building could still be used for broadcasting purposes. The city attorney informed him that it could not. His request that the studio be allowed to use the quarters until August first was granted.

Vaughn-Johnson

The First Methodist church at Albion, Mich., was the scene of the double ring service on Sunday, June 12 which united in marriage Miss Billie Blair Vaughn and Stephen S. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gottfried S. Johnson of Manistique, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Vaughn, West Erie road, are the parents of the bride.

An altar banked with greenery and adorned with snapdragons, stephanotis and candelabra formed the background for the ceremony performed by Dr. G. Dempster Yinger, pastor of the church. Fashioned of mousseline de soie, the bride's gown featured a sweetheart neckline, a panel of ruffles down the back of the skirt and three-quarter length sleeves also trimmed with ruffles. Her headdress was a small bonnet-like tiara with a short veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of stephanotis and feverfew centered by a white orchid.

Miss Janyth Vaughn was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Harley A. Thronson of Madison, Wis., also a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. They wore identical gowns of pale lavender marquisette over taffeta designed with high necklines and cap sleeves. The hoop skirts were made with a back panel of ruffles similar to the bride's. They had matching gauntlets and bonnet-like headdresses in pale lavender and their colonial bouquets were centered with red roses and tied with streamers of lavender moline and satin.

Reception Held

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Merrill N. Johnson, brother of the bridegroom acted as the best man and seating the guests were George Carruthers, Windsor, Can., Richard McKinley, Grosse Pointe Shores, George Whiteborne, Toledo, O., and Paul Morgan of Rushville, Ind., all Delta Tau Delta fraternity brothers of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Vaughn wore an aqua crepe gown with a bodice of matching lace, a white net hat and accessories and corsage of pale pink. Mrs. Johnson was attired in a navy and white print gown with which she wore blue and white accessories and a corsage.

Following the wedding, a reception was held for 110 guests at the country home of Mr. and Mrs.

Vaughn. The bride's table beautifully decorated with water lilies and white tapers was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake.

Home in Detroit

When Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left on their wedding trip to Chicago, the bride was wearing a silk print dress with green and white accessories and the white orchid from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return they will reside in Detroit.

The bride was graduated from Washington Gardner high school and Ward-Belmont Junior college in 1947. She also attended the University of Michigan. Mr. Johnson was graduated from the Manistique high school and from the University of Michigan in 1948, where he was a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. He is now a junior at the University of Detroit School of Law.

Supervisors Adopt
Equalization Report

Tax valuations proposed by the county board of equalization were accepted by the Schoolcraft county board of supervisors at its regular June session which came to a close Tuesday afternoon. There were two dissenting votes cast in the roll call for adoption and a resolution adopted later hinted at the possibility of changes in valuations later on.

The resolution in question, proposed by William Berger and seconded by Walter Burns requested that the state tax commission be called in to make a spot check of valuations in certain areas. The resolution passed by a vote of 8 to 4.

Another resolution passed unanimously, called upon the federal government to pay taxes on federally owned land.

Following are the valuations set in the adopted report:

Lila Reid

Mrs. Lila Reid, 57, a resident of the Cooks vicinity for the past 18 years, died at her home late Monday afternoon. She had been ailing for some time.

Mrs. Reid was born in Naubinway on June 1, 1892 and was married on June 12, 1911, at Germfask, to Frank Reid, who preceded her in death a year ago.

The family moved from Marquette to Cooks 18 years ago. She attended the Presbyterian church at Manistique.

Surviving her are two sons, Charles, of Cooks and Glenn of Masselin, Ohio; four daughters, Mrs. Henry Runyan, of Battle Creek; Mrs. Eileen Pangborn, of Munising; Mrs. Donna Jean Wolfe, Masselin, Ohio; Betty Reid, at home; a brother, Alfred Richey, Manistique; three sisters, Mrs. Charles Sargent, McMillan; Mrs. Fred LaLonde, Newberry; Sister, Alice Clare, Grand Rapids and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Morton Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with the Rev. William Schobert officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Local Guardsmen
Hold Successful
Rifle Practice

The local national guard unit—Co. D 107 Engineers C. Bn.—completed its first weekend range firing at the Sportsman's Club range late Sunday afternoon. The results, according to the officers in charge, were extremely satisfactory and it is expected that every guard member who participated will qualify with ease when the company fires for record at Camp Grayling.

Among the men with no prior military service who showed exceptional ability were Pvt. Wm. F. Mueller, Pvt. Cliff Johnson, Pvt. Junior Grey and Recruit Frederick Gould.

Sgt. I-C Edward Leonard led the old timers, with plenty of bullseyes.

Recent additions to the guard, who participated in the target practice were Albert L. DeMers, Thomas L. Woodruff, William B. Gouldie, Fred D. Gould, Don W. Jackson, and Lloyd R. "Dick" Quinn. There are still vacancies to fill in the company.

LeClair, Product Of Ishpeming, Qualifies With 153 In NCAA

Ames, Iowa, June 29 (P)—The college boys get down to grips today in match play in their struggle to determine a national golf champion.

Medalist Arnold Palmer, southern conference champion from Wake Forest, was the top man, emerging from 36 holes of qualifying play with a 70-71-141.

That was a new competitive record for the 6,055-yard Iowa State college course. The previous mark for the 12-year-old course was 143.

Palmer's finishing blast shaded Fred Sampler, Purdue's co-champion of the Big Ten, by a stroke. A playoff involving seven 154 shooters was held off until today.

Harvie Ward of North Carolina university, first round leader with a 69, gathered a 73 yesterday for the third position in the hunt for medalist honors.

North Texas State won the team title with a 590 total. The Lone Star boys were 10 points ahead of Purdue and the University of Texas. Michigan was fourth with 602 and San Jose State, 1948 champs, fifth with 603.

Four of Michigan's six-man team qualified for championship play.

Facing his team was Roger Kelder, who turned in a 148 total on rounds of 75 and 73. Bob Olson had 76-73-149, captain Ed Schalton made 76-76-152 and Keith LeClair squeezed under the wire with a 77-76-153.

(Editor's Note—LeClair learned his golf at the Wawanowin Golf club, Ishpeming.)

Leo Hauser was scheduled to enter the playoff with 154. He made his mark on rounds of 73 and 81.

Pete Elliott, who won third place in the Big Ten tournament at Ann Arbor last month, was off form with rounds of 77 and 81 and failed to qualify.

White Sox Can Claim Injury Title Anyway

Chicago, June 29 (P)—The Chicago White Sox today presented nine reasons for claiming the Major League injury championship.

Five of the White Sox crimples are out of uniform altogether; while four others are carrying on despite their ills.

The White Sox injury list: Sidelined—Gus Zernial, outfielder out with fractured right collar bone; Herb Adams, another outfielder who was sent to the hospital after crashing into a fence in Boston.

Fred Hancock, substitute shortstop, nursing bruised right leg; Patcher Ed Killeman recovering from knee operation; and infielder Bobby Rhawn suffering from pto-maine poison.

Playing despite injuries or ills—Fibjo baseman Charley Kress, pto-maine; third sacker Floyd Baker, infected right eye; catcher Joe Tipton, pin point fracture of second finger on right hand; and outfielder George Metkovich, infected tooth to be removed tomorrow.

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

Cuff notes: Oh, well, the rich get richer and the poor get poorer! All four teams in the first division of the Bay de Noc, Cooks, Perkins, Nahma and Rapid River, won last Sunday. And, of course, all four teams in the bottom division of the eight-team league, namely Fayette, Garden, Cornell and Rock, lost last Sunday.

When Perronville defeated Stephenson, 4-0, last Sunday, it was Perronville's fifth shutout of the season and the Steves first loss in Tri-County league play. "Ace" Charand, of Munising, hit a bases-loaded homer against Manistique in a Rainbow tilt Sunday but the Cardinals of Manistique still won the game, 13-12. The Manistique-Munising game, incidentally, was the only game of all in the four leagues we cover with spot news reports Monday which was not reported. All others came through on schedule. Winning team managers are reminded of that 9:30 deadline for reporting games.

Don Feller, who missed the U. P. pro-amateur Monday, shot a 34 with a bogey five on No. 9 the other evening. Feller could have done all right by himself in that event. Jim Milward, Green Bay hot-shot, was low with 70 and there was a gap of five strokes before Everett Leonard, another Wisconsin pro, came through with 75 for second place. Milward won $75 and Leonard $50. Feller is hitting the ball, he might have slipped in there for second place with a 72, 73 or 74.

Jack Pratt, late of the Escanaba Hawks, has returned from sailing the Great Lakes and is now trimming 'em at his father's hair clip emporium on Stephenson avenue. Eddie Olds, former Ishpeming and Northern Michigan athlete, has accepted a position as head coach of Milligan college in Johnson city, Tenn., with an enrollment of 500. Olds recently got his master's in physical education from the University of Michigan.

It was Don Shannon again in Powers' 6-2 Tri-County win over Wilson last Sunday. Shannon stepped in when Jack Beck vacated the Powers mound and is really getting along fine. Escanaba's National Guardsmen fired on a fine range northwest of the Gladstone golf course the past two Sundays in preparation for Camp Graveling Aug. 6. The Guards fired the familiarization course with the M-1 so they'd all set for record firing at Graveling. The range is now 200-yards but has a potential of 600 yards. It's the one the Gladstone Rifle has been interested in building for some time with the cooperation of the Guard.

Jack Marble, of Gladstone, using a regular stock 14-foot plywood boat, won a 105-mile race on Lake Winnebago recently in some pretty fast company, but, at last report, he was disqualified on a technicality, reported to be failure to check in at check buoy en route. It was strictly a technicality. Francis Shampo, also of Gladstone, rode with him as mechanic. Others in the Winnebago races were Mason Meyer and Les Plimpton, of Escanaba, and Otto DuRoy, of Gladstone. There is still some possibility, we understand, that Marble might officially be declared the winner.

Professional tennis is not supposed to be particularly lucrative unless you happened to be a Jack Kramer, Bobby Riggs or Don Budge. But a little fellow by the name of Elwood Cooke, who married Sarah Palfrey Fabyan a few years and thus gave her the rather euphonious name of Sarah Palfrey Fabyan Cooke, is doing all right. What with lessons, concessions at, Cooke, a non-touring pro, clears $40,000 a year.

Schroeder Faces Tough Foe In Eric Sturgess

London, June 29 (P)—Ted Schroeder, a 4 to 5 favorite to win the men's singles title in the Wimbledon Tennis championships, may need all his pep and power today to beat South Africa's Eric Sturgess in their semifinals match.

Top-seeded Ted from La Crescenta, Calif., tackles Sturgess on the famed center court, Center Court, after surviving American, wants to join fellow-Californian Jack Kramer's professional troupe next fall, this is one of the tour's m.e.d.t.s he should win.

The other semifinal pits hard hitting Jaroslav Drobný, the Czech southpaw, against veteran John Bromwich of Australia.

Bromwich is a 7 to 4 second choice for the title on a London bookmaker's odds list. Drobný is 3 to 1, with Sturgess the 4 to 1 outsider.

Two quarterfinals matches in the women's singles also are on tap and these should round out an all-American semifinals affair.

Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., the defending champion, plays Britain's Mrs. Molly Blair, while Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont, Bellevue, Del., takes on Mrs. Betty Hilton, another Britisher. Both Americans rule heavy choices.

Mrs. Patt Todd of La Jolla, Calif., advanced to the semifinals yesterday with a 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Mrs. Jean Bridger Walker-Smith of Britain. Boston's Mrs. Helen Rihbany also gained the round of four by conquering Britain's Mrs. Peggy Dawson-Scott, 7-5, 7-5.

It was rough on seeded men's doubles, however. John Bromwich and Frank Sedgman, a second seeded defending champs from Australia, lost to Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Eric Sturgess of South Africa, 6-8, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3.

Australians Geoff Brown and Billy Sidwell defeated fourth-seeded Bob Falkenberg of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Drobný, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 6-8, 6-6.

Two seeded American teams survived. Top-seeded Schroeder and Gardnar Mulloy of Miami beat Britain's Tony Mottram and Geoff Paish, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 10-8. Pancho Gonzales and Frankie Parker of Los Angeles won from Italy's Gianni Cucelli and Marcello Del Bello, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

White Birch blanked the Merchants, 7-0 in a city league contest last night. Clem Sharkey hit a homer for the Birches.

White Birch 0013012-7 13 1 Merchants 000000-0 3 2 Leo Lancour and Harry Lancour; Dale Rehnquist and Bill Mulvaney.

New York's 6-Game Bulge Looms Even Bigger With DiMag

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two things became clear today. Joe DiMaggio, ailing heel and all, still is the most electrifying figure in baseball and the New York Yankees are definitely the team to beat for the American league flag.

Only yesterday such a statement could not have been made in all sincerity. But events in Boston last night proved even to die-hard Red Sox fans that Joltin' Joe is the No. 1 DiMaggio, and the Yankees will take a lot of beating.

"How did it feel, Joe, getting back in there, hitting your first home run of the season and, if you don't mind repetition, how's the heel feel?"

"Oh, good," he replied, "I was going crazy hanging around New York."

The pucky Casey Stengel, manager of the Yankees, winked as he tied his tie, "What a relief to have that feller back. 'You'd think he had been playing all season. Did you see him on that close pitch? Just leaned back as if he'd been doing it every day. And when he swung he didn't lunge at the ball, overstride or understride like a good many would. 'He's in stride'."

It will be a long time before the 36,228 spectators lured out to Fenway park by the prospect of seeing Joe back in action, will forget DiMaggio's 1949 debut. They saw Joe cover himself with glory as the Yankees defeated their favorites, 5-4. They know now that the Red Sox face a herculean task to overcome New York's six-game bulge.

He Still Has It
DiMaggio, who missed the Yankees' first 65 games because of an inflamed right heel, wasted no time proving that he had lost none of his greatness. Facing 20-year-old Maurice McDermott in the second inning. For his first official time at bat this year, Joe lined a single to left center. Two outs later, he and Johnny Lindner scored ahead of Hank Sawyer's home run to give the Yankees a 3-0 lead.

DiMaggio came up for his second time at bat in the third. There were two outs and one on. He rifled a fast pitch into the left field screen for a home run to put his team in front, 5-0. That was the ball game, as the Red Sox came back to knock out Alton Reynolds in the ninth, and he Reynolds in one run of tying it up. It was Joe who caught Ted Williams' long fly with a runner on third for the final out of the game.

A's Whip Nats
DiMaggio had six chances in the field and gobbled them up neatly. He was forced to make a long run to get under Williams' fly in the seventh, and appeared to be favoring his heel slightly. He drew one of McDermott's three bases on balls and grounded out in his fourth appearance.

The question now confronting not only the Red Sox but the other contenders as well is: If the Yankees were tough to beat with DiMaggio, how are they going to be beaten with him?

The runner-up Philadelphia Athletics remained four and a half games behind New York, whipping the Washington Senators, 6-1, behind the seven-hit pitching of Alex Kellner. The rookie left-hander won his 11th game to join the Yankees' Vic Raschi as the top winning pitcher in the majors.

Brooklyn gained its one game lead over St. Louis in the National league. The Dodgers defeated the Phils at Philadelphia, 5-3, while the Cards shut out the Chicago Cubs in St. Louis, 5-0. The New York Giants shaded the Boston Braves, 2-1. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were rained out.

SOFTBALL
Tonight's schedule: Memorial field, 7:15—Northland Stores vs. Harnischfeger T-C; 8:45—Merchants vs. Loans. Royce-P&H vs. Power and Light.

Baseball's Most Popular Player

TED WILLIAMS

Chicago, June 29 (P)—For the second successive year, the Boston Red Sox' slugging outfielder, Ted Williams, has become "popular champion" of the All-Star baseball poll.

The nation-wide balloting by fans to select the starting American and National league lineups for the 16th contest, scheduled for Brooklyn's Ebbets Field July 12, ends at midnight tonight.

Williams has collected 1,418,327 votes out of the total 3,408,772 cast in the latest tabulations. He was most popular choice last year with 1,556,784 out of a record-breaking 4,107,893. Williams leads his nearest rival, Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers, by 85,924.

Mathias Still Favored In National Decathlon

Tulare, Calif., June 29 (P)—University of North Carolina with 3885 points and fourth was Roger Twigg of the Illinois Athletic Club, the 1942 winner, with 3672.

Mathias drew backing off the fact that his score was 103 more than it was at the halfway mark of the Nationals last year while Moundschein was about 163 points down from his 1948 score.

Moundschein stuck close by with strength in the shotput (43 feet 4 1/2 inches), the high jump (6 feet 3 1/4) and victory in a rip tearing 400 meter duel with Mathias in 51.3 seconds.

Mathias got off a 45 foot 3 inch shotput and in the high jump he dropped out only at 6 feet 1/4 inch, pretty high for a 195 pounder.

Tulare is bedecked with flags and pictures of Mathias, its home town boy. Crepe will replace them if modest Bob fails tonight.

Nearly 6000 townspeople turned out last night to give their local idol most of their cheers.

In front of the field lies the 110-meter high hurdles, the discus and javelin throws, the pole vault and the 1500 meter run. Behind them are the 100 and 400 meter dashes, the shotput, high and broad jumps.

Pollet pitched his second shutout of the year for a St. Louis Cardinal 5-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs last night.

Bob Lemon Bests Trucks As Tribe Shelves Tigers

Cleveland, June 29 (P)—Knocked into the second division by Cleveland's rejuvenated Indians, the Detroit Tigers were out to make up lost ground in a double-header with the Tribe today.

Bob Lemon pitched Cleveland to a 4 to 2 victory last night that put his club in fourth place, just a few percentage points ahead of the Tigers.

Two southpaws, Ted Gray and Hal Newhouser, got Manager Red Rolfe's call to go against Gene Bearden and Bobby Feller in today's double feature.

Gray has four wins and the same number of losses to date. Hal was out for his tenth victory against six losses.

Charged with the defeat last night was ace right-hander Virgil Trucks, who took his fifth trimming against ten wins. Trucks pitched six innings and gave no evidence that he was still suffering from the ankle injury that put him off form in his last two appearances.

But Trucks just couldn't match Lemon's fine clutch hurling. The Indian moundsman permitted the Tigers eight hits—at least one in every inning except the seventh and ninth.

But with men on the basepaths he tightened up and muffled Detroit bats.

The only exception came in the third inning when Lemon hit Aaron Robinson on the leg with a pitched ball and put him on first. Then Johnny Ligon came through with his first home run of the season to drive in the Tigers' only scores.

It was one of the Detroit shortstop's three hits of the evening. Pat Mullin also picked up three singles. Coming in his first three trips to the plate, they gave Pat seven straight safe hits, since he collected four in as many times at bat Sunday. Lemon disposed of Mullin his last time up.

The Indians picked up two runs in the first and scored what proved to be the winning marker in the next inning.

With one out Bob Kennedy doubled and Jim Hegar went down on strikes. Then Lemon came up and aided his own cause with a double to left-center, sending in Kennedy.

In the sixth Kennedy's bat gave the Tigers more trouble. Mickey Vernon singled and stole second. After Joe Gordon went out, the Bengals decided to walk Ken Keltner and get at Kennedy. But Bob banged a single that scored Vernon with an insurance run for the Indians.

After that Lemon kept the Tigers well in rein. Dizzy Trout pitched the last two innings for Detroit and set the Tribe down with no runs and one hit.

ALLEY SPRAY IS SCHEDULED

Will Start Thursday;
To Cover 14 Miles

Alleys in Escanaba will be sprayed with a weak mixture of DDT Thursday and Friday of this week, if the weather remains clear, without heavy wind, Robert Clayton, city forester, said today.

The operations will require about 24 pounds of a 50 per cent mixture of DDT, and 2000 gallons of water.

"The DDT spray kills flies and mosquitoes, but absolutely will not harm cats, dogs and beneficial insects," Clayton emphasized. "Recent government reports on cattle harmed by DDT sprays have caused much skepticism about the use of this poison," he pointed out.

"Much of the difficulty encountered in using DDT has been caused by improper use. If manufacturers' specifications are followed, and the spray is treated as any other poison, the use of it can be a safe procedure, the city forester explained. DDT used in the open is far less dangerous than when used in buildings, and many cities are using it for alley spraying," Clayton said.

The alley spraying program last year received much favorable comment. The total operation costs about $75, $25 of which is used for the insecticide.

The 1949-50 city budget carries an appropriation to cover three sprayings this year, one each in June, July and August. The spray is effective for four weeks, unless heavy rains follow spraying.

City crews have been spraying trees in the city to protect them against aphids. The work, Clayton reports, is nearly finished.

The aphids, the city forester says, do not harm the trees to any great extent, but are a nuisance for they create a sticky substance which clings to cars and sidewalks. If enough of them sapped the plant juice, a tree could be harmed, Clayton said.

DEGREE IN LAW—Hilding C. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar S. Olson, 800 First avenue south, received his degree cum laude from Southern Law University in Memphis, Tenn., recently, and will practice law in the state of Tennessee following his bar examinations.

Mr. Olson, was the second highest in his class of 65 members, and received the special commendation given night class graduates who earned their degrees in leisure time while carrying a full job with family responsibilities.

A graduate of Escanaba high school in 1928, he received his A. B. from Michigan State college in 1932, and his Master's, also from Michigan State in 1933.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson, his parents, who attended the graduation festivities, have returned to their home here.

Barber Shop Chorus At Escanaba Starts Off Busy Summer

Looking forward to their own barber shop quartet concert Oct. 22, the Escanaba Barber Shop chorus under the direction of Sam Ham is launched in a busy summer.

First in a series of engagements will be an appearance at the U. P. American Legion convention memorial program in Escanaba July 15. On Sunday, Aug. 7, the chorus will go to Blaney Park to present two concerts, and on Aug. 23 the chorus is scheduled to enter the district barber shop chorus contest at Sheboygan, Wis.

Rehearsals are being held every Thursday night in the second floor lounge of the Elks temple. This week, the gathering will be the last one of the fiscal year for the local SPEBSQSA chapter, and new officers and new committees will take over, with O. V. Thatcher succeeding Lowell Sundstrom as president.

Refreshments will be served as a special feature after the rehearsal tomorrow night.

The local chorus has a membership of about 40 men, representing varied businesses and professions in Escanaba and Gladstone. George King of Escanaba is piano accompanist.
